ALABAMA'S VOTES AWARDED TO TAFT

President Wins First of Contests for Seats in Convention by Unamimous Vote of Committee.

SENATOR BORAH REFUSES TO BE GAGGED

Chicago, June 7.—President Taft won the first of the contests for seats in the republican national convention heard by the republican national committee today when by a vote of 53 to 0—a unanimous decision, the contest over the Alabama delegates at large, six in number, was decided in favor of the "Long" (Taft) delegation.

The first vote was viva voce, Senator Borah asking for a yea and nay vote, although evidently there were no negatives. His request was complied with and confirmed the unanimous decision.

The Taft delegates at large are O. D. Street, J. J. Curtis, S. T. Wright, S. S. Pleasants, A. C. Birch, U. G. Mason.

Following the roll call leading members of the committee intimated that roll calls would be granted whenever asked for by members of the committee. While the original demand of Senator Borah is understood to be the purpose of the committee to allow a record vote to be taken whenever Roosevelt members desire it. Senators Penrose and Crane were among those who joined Senator Borah and the Roosevelt members in asking for the roll call in the Alabama case.

New Defeat for Roosevelt.

Before the contests were taken up the Roosevelt adherents met another defeat, duplicating that of yesterday, in the tabling of the renewed motion of Senator Borah, of Idaho, that eight members instead of 20 as now provided by the rules, should be a sufficient number to order a record of the yeas and nays on any proposition.

Although Mr. Borah was thus defeated in his attempt at the beginning of the meeting Taft men joined with him unanimously when he asked for it on the first Alabama case. The Roosevelt members of the committee without exception voted to seat the so-called "Long" delegates who are Taft men and who were chosen in the state convention of August 3, 1911 and re-elected in a new convention March 7, 1912, having thus given Taft the six Alabama delegates from each of the First, Second, Fifth, Sixth and Ninth districts. Fifteen minutes per side was allowed by the committee for the district contests.

They Waive Argument.

In the First Alabama district case, the Roosevelt side waived argument as futile after the decision on the delegates at large.

First Alabama, two votes for Taft. Decision unanimous.

Second Alabama, two votes decided for Taft.

Fifth Alabama, two votes decided for Taft.

Sixth Alabama district, contest withdrawn; contestants failed to appear.

Prospect of Roosevelt Coming.

The prospect that Col. Roosevelt may come to Chicago next week to direct personally his campaign for the nomination held political attention when the day opened, to the exclusion of national committee affairs. With the demand for

WORK OF REPUBLICAN NATIONAL COMMITTEE.

Began work on the contests over seats in the national convention.

Again defeated motion of Senator Borah, of Idaho, which would enable eight members to require a roll call. The number stands at twenty.

Alabama case—Delegation at large (six votes) first considered.

Arizona case—Delegation at large (six votes) deferred till later day.

Voted unanimously to seat the Taft delegates at large from Alabama. Same decision in Alabama First, Second and Fifth districts. Sixth Alabama district contest withdrawn; contestants failed to appear.

What Is He Going to Say Tonight?

GIVE GOV. MARSHALL NEW ENDORSEMENT

Indiana Democratic Editors in Fort Wayne Again Urge His Nomination for the Presidency.

STATE MEETING PROVES BIG SUCCESS

Democratic editors of Indiana today gave new pledge of their fealty to Governor Marshall, and in resolutions adopted paid high tribute to the governor and again presented his name to the country as a candidate for the democratic presidential nomination, declaring their unswerving devotion to his cause. The action was taken at a business session of the Indiana Democratic Editorial association at Robison park this afternoon.

Other resolutions adopted commended the state ticket and urged the people to support it; endorsed the work of the United States senators and congressmen and the acts of the last legislature in its entirety.

State Administration Endorsed.

The state administration was also endorsed, and the editors denounced the report that the state is bankrupt and demanded the production of evidence to show that it has not enough money in the treasury to pay any warrant that might be presented. Another resolution deprecated the high cost of living and demanded the removal of tariff duty from the necessities of life.

Among other resolutions, one thanked State Senator Stephen B. Fleming for the kindness and courtesies shown by him and declaring him a host par excellence. They also thanked the people of Fort Wayne for their unlimited hospitality.

The resolution committee appointed by President Frank Gwin, of New Albany, had for its members: Dale J. Crittenberger, of the Anderson Bulletin; B. F. Louthain, of the Logansport Pharos; W. S. Chambers, of the New Castle Democrat; A. B. Crampton, of the Delphi Citizens' Times, and Sam Boyd, of the Washington Democrat.

Many Are Here.

Fort Wayne is today honored by the presence of many of Indiana's most distinguished men. Practically all of the state officials and those who will be candidates at the coming election, are here, with the editors. Those who did not reach the city for the opening session Thursday evening came this morning and more will come from nearby surrounding towns for the public mass meeting to be held at Princess rink, at which time Governor Marshall is to make the keynote speech of his campaign for the presidential nomination. Hon Samuel M. Ralston, nominee for governor, and Hon. Cyrus Cline, congressman from the Twelfth district, are also to speak at the meeting. In view of the importance of this gathering, an audience that will fill the rink to its capacity is expected. The meeting is for everybody and a general invitation has been extended.

Naturally, everbody is talking politics and just as naturally all predict a sweeping victory for state and national democracy next November, declaring that never before has the party had such favorable opportunity to carry off all honors.

Enjoy Auto Ride.

The visitors met at 8:30 o'clock this.

SOME REPORTS ON SMOKE NUISANCE

Technical Committee Summarizes a Portion of Its Observations on Fort Wayne Conditions.

The chairmen of committee E of the technical committee of the Civic Improvement association discussed reports received and filed for record on the smoke nuisance in Fort Wayne. In the belief that this line of work by the members would be of general interest to the public a motion was made and unanimously carried instructing the chairman to select one or more of these reports for publication.

The following report, made May 4, from the top of the court house dome, between 7:25 a. m. and 8:40 a. m., by one of the members, will give an idea of records carried on and stimulate all "smoke producers" to take notice and earn favorable mention in the future reports that will likely be published:

Smoke stack, jail building plant—Heavy smoke.

Spy Run power house—Continuous black smoke for at least fifteen (15) minutes.

Gas works, foot Superior street—Dense black smoke for about five (5) minutes.

L. S. & M. S. shops—Considerable smoke, but of not much density.

Troy laundry, Pearl street—Heavy, continuous black smoke.

Perfection Biscuit company—Black smoke, but did not last long.

Anthony hotel—Heavy black smoke; acted very lazy; force blower would improve.

Wabash shops showed up very good; very little smoke.

Large stack back of Wabash depot—Considerable smoke.

Pennsylvania east yards—Room for

STATESMAN WAS VERY POOR SHOT

Fires Three Times in Futile Effort to Slay Count Tisza.

IN HUNGARIAN DIET

Buda Pest, Hungary, June 7.—Count Tisza, president of the lower house, had a very narrow escape from assassination in the diet this morning. He was fired upon three times by Deputy Julius Kovacs, who then shot himself, probably with fatal effect. Count Tisza was unscathed.

Kovacs was one of the most militant members of the opposition and was among those who were ejected from the chamber Wednesday because of disorderly conduct. He was suspended for several sittings, but this morning, when the chamber reconvened, he managed to evade the police and found his way into the press gallery.

When the proceedings opened Kovacs moved to the front of the gallery and shouting, "There are still opposition members in the chamber!" drew a revolver and emptied three chambers in the direction of the president. Then seemingly chagrinned at his bad marksmanship, he put two bullets into his own body.

The attack upon the count is a direct outcome of the agitation which has been persisted in since his election as speaker on May 22. Tisza is an opponent of universal suffrage and on this issue his election was contested with a bitterness that culminated in violence in the chamber and bloodshed in the streets. Free fights occurred around the voting places and finally the whole opposition party left the chamber and Tisza was elected by the government party.

INDIANA PURE FOOD LAW GOOD

Upheld as Constitutional by the Supreme Court Decision.

COMMERCE COURT HIT

Washington, June 7.—The Indiana pure food law of 1907 was upheld today as constitutional by the supreme court of the United States.

The principle was announced that states may enact such measures without interfering with the federal pure food and drugs acts of 1906.

The constitutionality of the law was raised by Marion W. Savage, who claimed he was manufacturing in Minnesota a medicinal product and sought to have the federal circuit court in Indiana enjoin the enforcement of the state pure food law as to his goods. The court declined.

Justice Hughes today announcing the unanimous decision said a state had a right to compel the statement of ingredients of such an article. He said this was what the Indiana law required and therefore it did not interfere with the federal law which dealt with "false and misleading" labeling.

The federal law, it was added, did not

WILL SEND 5,000 TROOPS TO CUBA

General Army Staff Issues Orders for Military Expedition.

MEANS QUICK ACTION

Washington, June 7.—The general staff of the army today issued preparatory orders for the dispatch of a military expedition of 5,000 troops to Cuba.

The four army transports now at Newport News were ordered to be put in commission, provisioned and supplied. Orders also were sent to the army posts from which the troops will be drawn, to have them in readiness for the movement.

The troops will be taken from Plattsburg barracks, Forts Porter, Niagara and Governor's Island and Forts McPherson and Oglethorpe, in Georgia.

A statement by Gen. Estenoz, the insurrecto chief, denying that the rising was a race war, or that the insurrectos had been guilty of wanton outrages was made public at the state department today. It came from Estenoz through George Collister, the American ranch owner who was reported captured. Estenoz says at some length that the negro in Cuba has been deprived of his constitutional rights.

"Rather than be governed by Cubans in the way we have been governed in

VIOLENCE MARKS STRIKE IN BOSTON

Elevated Railway Employes Demand Recognition of the Union.

ARRESTS ARE MADE

Boston, June 7.—Violence marked the beginning of a strike of several thousand of the employes of the Boston elevated railway at daylight. Those who refused to work demand recognition by the company of a recently formed union. The company's reply is that they have treated the men unusually well for many years and refuse to deal with them otherwise than as individuals.

The street railway service and the elevated road were being operated on about half time at 8 a. m. today and up to that hour five arrests had been made for assaults on motormen. Although the strike had been threatened for a week or more, it came shortly after 4 a. m. with a suddenness and a clash that surprised not only the company officials, but the police of Boston, Brookline, Cambridge, Somerville, Everett, Chelsea, Medford and Malden.

The men had been discussing the matter nearly all night at a mass meeting, and as daylight was breaking it was decided to take a vote. As soon as it was seen that those in favor of going out were in the majority the gathering morning at the Anthony hotel and at 9 o'clock, in forty-five automobiles, left for a tour of the city. The autos followed a route previously mapped out by the local reception committee and journeyed to West Berry street, through Swinney park, on South Broadway to the Electric works, out Fairfield avenue to the Packard Piano factory, then to the Bowser plant, the Bass foundry and the Pennsylvania shops and round house. The procession then went to the Pennsylvania station, over to Lakeside and to the Indiana state school for feeble minded youth, up to Spy Run avenue to the power plant of the Fort Wayne and Northern Indiana Traction company, through Lawton park and then to the Wayne Knitting mills, where they spent some time inspecting the plant.

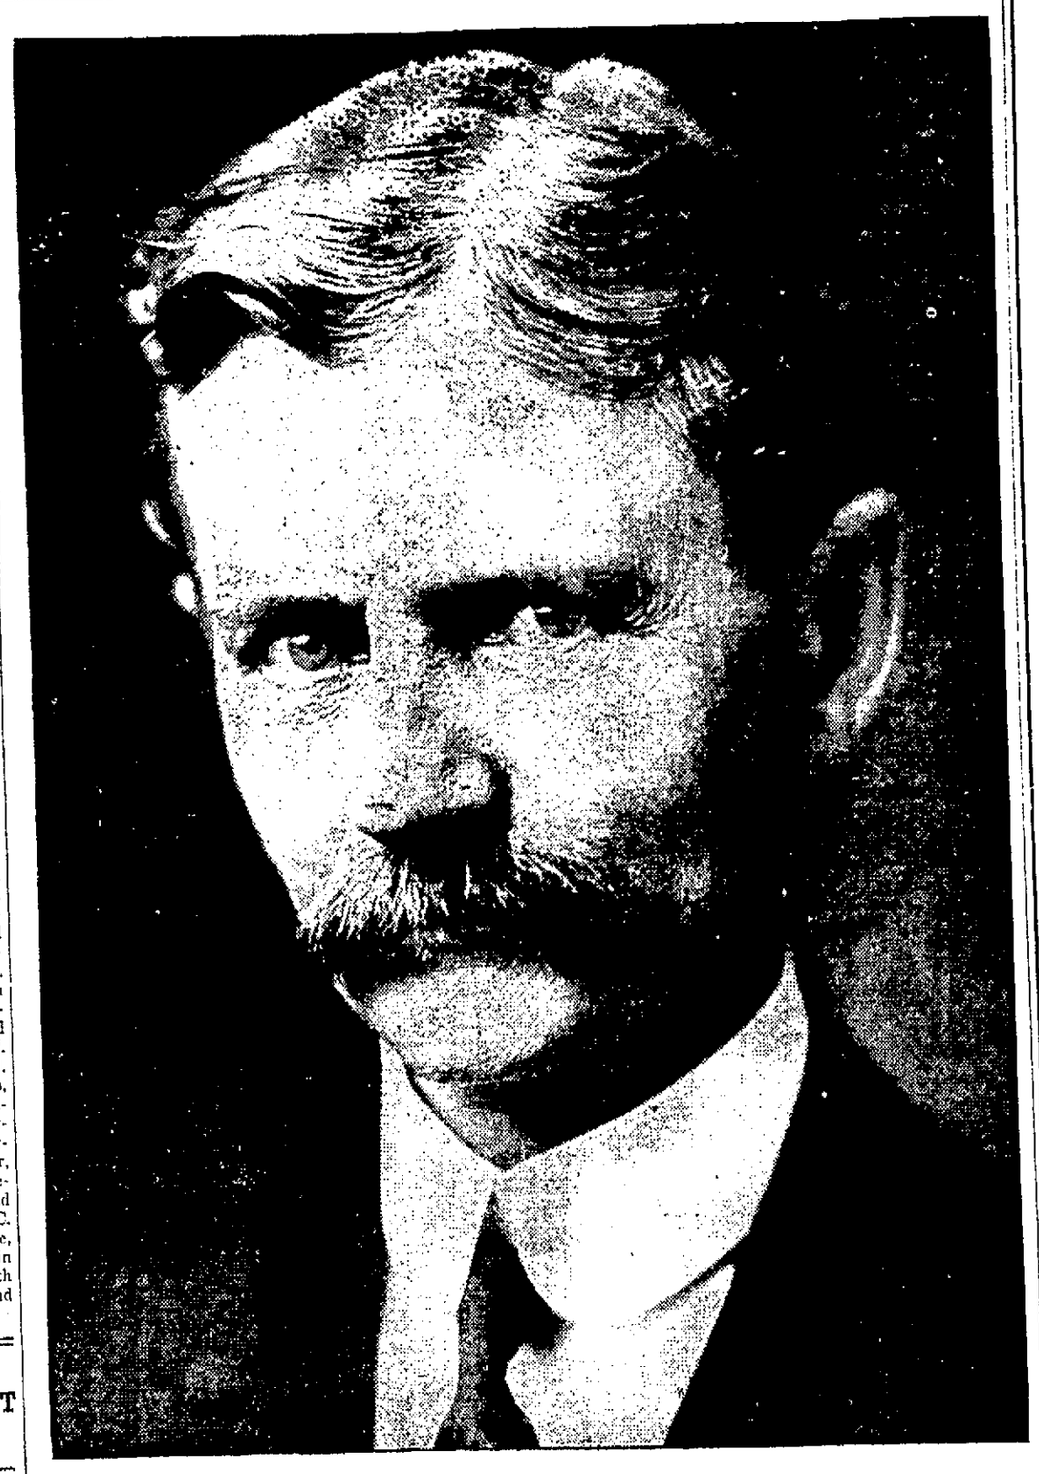
To Robison Park.

The party returned to the business district at noon and after inspecting the court house, which they declared the finest in the state, left in special cars for Robison park, where a luncheon and business session featured the afternoon.

During the luncheon the only speaker was A. D. Moffett, of Elwood, first vice president of the National Press association. Mr. Moffett will be a candidate for president of the national organization, and his candidacy will be given the hearty support of the Indiana editors. He spoke at some length on the state and national association.

COMES BACK AMONG THE HOME FOLK TO MINGLE WITH INDIANA EDITORS AND DELIVERS ADDRESS AT PRINCESS RINK TONIGHT.



GOVERNOR THOMAS R. MARSHALL.

Mr. Moynihan Presides.

With Governor Thomas R. Marshall and Hon. Samuel M. Ralston, democratic nominee for governor, as the principal speakers, the first session of the convention was held last evening at the Elks' temple, where the visitors were escorted by the local reception committee, after they had been assigned to their rooms and registered at the Anthony hotel. Andrew J. Moynihan, of the Journal-Gazette, presided as chairman, and in opening the meeting declared that the assemblage was the largest that had ever attended a convention of the Indiana Democratic Editorial association. He added also, that the occasion was graced by the presence of Indiana's two favorite sons, Governor Marshall and Mr. Ralston, both of whom he stated would be tendered the highest honors the party can pay in the elections in November. Mr. Moynihan also extended to the visitors the welcome of the newspapers of Fort Wayne.

When the names of Mr. Marshall and Mr. Ralston were mentioned, the audience heartily responded and loud applause was offered in honor of the distinguished visitors, both of whom appeared upon the stage, with Frank Gwin, of New Albany, president of the association. Theodore F. Thieme, president of the Fort Wayne Commercial club, was also introduced and welcomed the visitors to the city on behalf of the Commercial club, explaining that when they were invited to Fort Wayne Mr. Fleming, who extended the invitation, was at that time chairman of the club's committee on assemblages.

Loves Twelfth District.

Mr. Marshall excused himself to the visitors from other parts of the state when he declared that he loved the Twelfth congressional district of Indiana better than any spot on earth.

"It is very embarrasing to be placed in the position of a candidate for office at this time," said Mr. Marshall, "because it seems that our republican brothers are occupying the entire stage, and the democrats are merely standing about in the wings. I, however, am not unmindful of the recognition given me in Indiana, and especially the love, devotion and appreciation shown me by the democratic editors of the state. I wish to thank you for myself. I am at a loss to explain why I receive such devotion as is tendered me by the democratic press. As a man, a democrat and an office holder I can find no reason why I should be offered such sincere loyalty. I am thankful for it and can only say that the democratic party in Indiana has paid me a thousand fold.

"Indiana is a great state, and I might say the imperial commonwealth of America. It is at the front in educational pursuits, and in literature and other arts and professions. Indiana does not merely keep up with the pace. It sets the pace for other states to follow."

Here Mr. Marshall paid a glowing tribute to the Twelfth district, declaring that he loves it better than any place on earth, and with pride in his expression, the governor turned to Mr. Moynihan and declared to the assembled guests that the Fort Wayne editor was the man who first started him in his political career.

"It was he who brought me out, and then the men of the Twelfth district and the men of Fort Wayne rallied to my support."

Mr. Moynihan declared that Mr. Marshall was presented to the people of Indiana and they all supported him, and that when presented to the people of the United States, would have their support for his race for the presidency.

It's All Democratic.

Hon. Samuel M. Ralston, of Lebanon, democratic nominee for governor, spoke briefly:

"I am indeed glad to meet you here," he declared, "especially since this is Fort Wayne, where the people are so democratic. I know the power of the democrats in the Twelfth district, as I have been up against it once myself, and a candidate feels awfully good to know that instead of being against him, the Twelfth is with him and pushing him forward. It seems that the victory is already won.

"One half of the republicans, say the half on the stage, to which the governor referred, should not be there, and then the other half, off the stage, will not look in the direction of those on the boards. There is but one way to remedy this. The democrats must get in and in due time elect its ticket, and at the same time put Governor Marshall in the center as the next and only possibility for the presidency."

President's Gwin's address will be found in another column of this issue of The Sentinel.

Following the program of addresses, the guests were entertained by the Bailhe trio, with Miss Edith Nickell as soloist. The musicians were rapturously applauded and encored at every number, and Miss Nickell, whose sweet voice was appreciatively heard by the large audience, was called back time after time in response to unbounded applause.

Well Known Men Here.

Besides Governor Marshall and Mr. Ralston, the convention is being attended by some of the best known political leaders in the state. Among them are W. A. Dehority, chief of the state accounting board; George A. Bittler, assistant state examiner; Michael Thornton, who is urged as the next speaker of the house; E. H. Barrett, state geologist; Representative S. B. Wells, of Scottsville; Thomas W. Brolley, state statistician; Thomas M. Honan, attorney general of Indiana; Donn M. Roberts, democratic chairman of Vigo county; W. H. Vollmer, state treasurer; J. A. Beane, of Goshen; Secretary of State Lew G. Ellingham; Alvin Padget, former democratic chairman of the Second district; J. B. Faulkner, of Michigan City; A. L. Zearing, former representative from Marion county and a candidate for senator from Putman, Morgan and Marion county; James Kervin, of Indianapolis; Senator Will A. Yarling, of Shelbyville; J. Fred France, reporter of the supreme court; C. J. Murphy, democratic chairman of the Tenth district; H. J. Cook, a member of the legislature from Marion county; Senator J. J. Netterville, of Anderson; S. D. Moffatt, of Elwood; W. S. Chambers, of New Castle; W. H. Hauch, state senator, of Lawrenceburg; S. E. Swaim, of Hammond; G. W. Miles, of Indianapolis, state game commissioner; A. B. Lee, of Alexandria; Clay Metsker, of Plymouth, ex-president of the association, and Thomas F. Corbert, custodian at the state house.

Notes of Convention.

State Examiner William A. Dehority, daughter Ruth and son Loomis, are the guests of George Bittler, his assistant, at his home on West Jefferson street.

At the meeting Thursday night at the Elks' temple a telegram was received from Senator Benjamin F. Shively, who expressed his regret at being unable to attend the convention. The senator is unavoidably detained at Washington. Mr. Shively stated that he envied those who were able to attend the meeting and added that at present the editors have with them the next governor of the state and the next president of the United States.

P. J. Kruyer, of South Bend, committeeman from the Thirteenth district, declares that the Thirteenth will go democratic in the coming election by a safe majority.

According to most of the Indianapolis people attending the convention, Mayor Lew Shank, of Indianapolis, is an avowed candidate for the republican gubernatorial nomination. They add that there is very little talk about Judge Walter Olds' possibilities at the capital city.

We have with us, among others, William H. Blodgett, of the Indianapolis News, and Mr. Maxwell, representing the Indianapolis Star.

Among others are all the democratic candidates for state representative from Marion county. They are Herman Adam, Samuel W. Miller, Albert Zearing, John Keegan, William W. Spencer and Homer Cook.

Indiana Democratic Editors Present Anew the Name of Governor Marshall for President.

(Resolution Adopted by Democratic Editorial Association of Indiana in Session at Robison Park, Fort Wayne, June 7.)

"The Democratic Editorial association of Indiana has on former occasions given expression of its high regard for the Hon. Thomas R. Marshall, governor of this commonwealth, and has commended him to the favorable consideration of the democratic party at large as a man particularly fitted and qualified for the presidency. And now, almost on the eve of the national convention, we heartily reaffirm our past declarations, and again urge the great democratic party to honor itself and make democratic success doubly sure by naming Governor Marshall as its standard bearer.

"We of Indiana know Tom Marshall and love him for the splendid type of man and statesman he has shown himself to be. His is a name to conjure with here and elsewhere. He knows no such thing as failure or defeat. When he entered public life four years ago as our candidate for governor, every branch of the state government was solidly republican; now every branch is solidly democratic. Then we had but five out of thirteen congressmen and no United States senators; now we have twelve out of thirteen congressmen and both of the United States senators. Tom Marshall has made Indiana as reliably democratic as Texas. He occupies the unique position in these days of extravagant promises, in being stronger in performance than in pledge. During his administration and under his direction more progressive measures have been enacted into law in Indiana that in any state in the union during the same time. This was accomplished in an orderly and regular way through a democratic legislature, and without any publicity bureau attachments.

"It is refreshing to turn from the humiliating spectacle of a president and an ex-president of the United States, belaboring and besmirching each other like common brawlers, and view the calm dignity of Tom Marshall, who refuses to go out and personally solicit support for an office which he holds to be, and which is, the highest and greatest office known among men.

"Governor Marshall is a democrat in all that the term implies, and believes that there are no needed reforms in governmental policies that cannot be secured through the agency of the democratic party. He stands for party integrity and party solidarity. He is neither time server nor opportunist, but holds fast to the fundamentals of the democratic faith as the most perfect expression of human rights.

"His high character, his engaging personality, his grasp of the great questions of government, his political strength and his lack of political hysteria, all combine to make him the strongest and most available candidate.

"The democratic editors of Indiana, in mid-summer meeting assembled, again present Governor Thomas R. Marshall to the democracy of the nation as our first and only choice for president of the United States."

BLOODY INDIAN BATTLE NEAR CHICAGO PREVENTED BY TIMELY ARRIVAL OF DESPERATE AND DARING RAINSTORM.

You Can't Blame the Indians, and Abe Lincoln, and Jeff Davis and Gen. Zach Taylor's Daughter, Can You, for Not Wanting to Get Wet.

(By Ima Le Mon.)

Good gracious! I've just had the most exciting experience!

A tremendous Indian fight—and right outside Chicago!

"There's a big battle on tomorrow," was the tip a friend handed me. "It'll be some fight! If you want to see it, hike for Glen Ellyn, Ill., in the morning. There's Injuns camped out there, and soldiers, and they're going to mix it as sure as sun-up. Don't let anybody else in on it."

Next morning I took the first electric car for Glen Ellyn.

I got off and walked through the woods.

Amid the wooded hills were handsome bungalows and stucco houses. "If there's a battle," I thought, "it'll be a shame, for all those windows will be broken."

The houses were out of sight behind the trees. A turn in the path brought me to a clearing. There stood three Indian tepees surrounding a campfire over which hung a kettle which steamed and gave forth an appetizing odor. A pretty Indian maiden bent over the kettle, and back of her was an ugly old squaw.

I heard the clatter of hoofs behind me, and jumped out of the way just in time. A dozen Indians dashed up on horseback. Their faces were painted; they waved their arms and looked fierce. The leader, Black Hawk, shook his tomahawk and another old buck sputtered something that sounded like "lek-i-glick-ick-ick."

"You're right," said Black Hawk, "it's war to the hilt, let the chips fall where they may."

I hid behind a tree and saw a young white girl ride up on a mouse-colored pony with a boy riding behind her. She saw the Indians and turned pale with horror.

"Run!" she cried to the boy. The boy slid off the horse and ran lickity-cut through the woods. The girl dug her heels into the horse's ribs and followed. The Indians took after her. I couldn't understand why she didn't let the boy stay on the horse and give him a chance to save his hide.

"Good!" yelled a voice through a megaphone. "Now do it again before the sun goes."

I looked around quickly and saw the owner of the voice. He was a handsome man in his shirt sleeves, smoking a cigarette. Behind him was a young fellow, also smoking a cigarette, who stood beside an odd looking black box set on a tripod. He was turning a crank like mad.

"It's a machine gun," I thought, wondering if I was out of range.

"Get out of the picture, you there in the lavender skirt," yelled the megaphone man; "d'yer want to spoil this film?"

I knew it was my lavender skirt he referred to.

All at once it dawned on me that the queer shaped box wasn't a gun, but a moving picture camera.

They started the next scene. It was the hold-up on the plains. Three dump wagons had been transformed into prairie schooners. The camera was set, and when the megaphone said, Start your action!" the wagons, loaded with settlers, drove toward the clearing.

The Indians were hidden behind a bush. They ran out and stopped the wagons. One Indian leaped from his horse and confronted the head settler.

"Soak him, now!" yelled the megaphone man and the Indian let go with his right fist over the settler's shoulder. The settler did a spectacular fall.

But just then some more settlers ran in from the rear, armed with long black rifles (rented from a curio shop). The Indians turned and skedaddled.

There were black clouds in the south by that time, and the man with the megaphone was in a hurry.

"Everybody down to the lake!" he shouted.

Every one grabbed his belongings and went helter-skelter down the road. A settler in a coonskin cap grabbed the Indian maiden around the waist and helped her along. Indians and frontiersmen rode together in the dump wagons.

When we got to the lake the sun was behind a cloud and we had to wait. There I met the man with the megaphone—the "producer," Joe Sullivan, who plans these photo plays. I also met Omar Doud, who wrote the play.

The piece was entitled "The Fall of Black Hawk," and it told of the Indian warfare in Illinois in the early thirties when Jeff Davis and Abe Lincoln fought under Winfield Scott and Jeff eloped with Zach Taylor's daughter. I also met Miss Barber and Miss Morgan, who played important roles.

In the next scene Miss Barber was supposed to escape from the Indians with Miss Morgan's aid.

Just when everything was ready, there was an awful flash of lightning. The thunder roared and the rain came down like cats and dogs. I turned and ran for Glen Ellyn just as fast as my limbs would carry me.

I ran into the town dripping wet. Jeff Davis, on horseback, his uniform dripping, trotted behind. A worthy housewife came out on the porch and waved her hands in wonderment.

The soldiers, the settlers, the Indians, the rescued maidens, the author, producer and all the rest, straggled into town, soaked to the skin.

"Back tomorrow morning at 8!" yelled Mr. Sullivan.

"Come out Friday," he said to me; "we're going to put on the battle scene."

WEDS BOYHOOD SWEETHEART.

Virginian Returns to Native Town After Forty Years.

Cape Charles, Va., June 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Crothers, a bridal couple, were passengers on board the New York express train from here en route to New York to spend their honeymoon. The bride is 65 years old and the bridegroom 67.

The couple were sweethearts during their youth in their native town, Adamston, Vt., and after a quarrel parted. This was forty years ago. Following the quarrel Mr. Crothers left Adamston for the west, became a mine prospector in Nevada and accumulated a fortune.

Mrs. Crothers, who was then Miss Lilliston, never heard from Mr. Crothers during the entire forty years. A few weeks ago he visited his home town and was surprised to learn that his sweetheart of years ago never had married. He called on her, proposed and they were married.

KILLED BY FUMES OF SHELLAC.

Widow of Painter Says Employers Used Wood Alcohol in Mixing.

New York, June 7.—Mrs. Nora O'Neil, widow of John O'Neil, who died a year ago, has begun suit for $50,000 damages for the death of her husband against Kraftmeyer & Newberger, a brewery supply company, and Bernheimer & Schwartz, brewers. The case is on trial in the supreme court.

The complaint alleges that O'Neil died from the effects of wood alcohol poisoning. It is alleged that he was employed to varnish the interior of beer vats for the brewers, and that while doing this work inhaled the fumes of the alcohol in shellac. The complaint alleges that the brewers were negligent in using wood alcohol instead of grain alcohol, a more expensive but safer ingredient for the shellac.

A Hint of What's Coming.

The man who pins any sort of faith to the time-honored adage that coming events cast their shadows before, will have little difficulty in attaching proper significance to the action of the republican national committee at its opening session in Chicago yesterday when it promptly elected Victor Rosewater, of Omaha, as national chairman. The militant friend of Mr. Roosevelt who recently succeeded in inducing the people of Nebraska to give him Mr. Rosewater's place on the committee and who has been insisting upon his right to be inaugurated in the job in time to have a few things to say regarding contests at Chicago, was given no sort of consideration. He was not even an also ran, and if he achieved the small comfort of even casual mention in the committee, the fact did not leak through to the public.

The action clearly means that the republican committee isn't proposing to permit anything revolutionary to happen. It will stick to precedent and tradition, and will decline to be stampeded. Carried out to what the statesman is fond of terming "the last analysis," we are utterly unable to detect any disposition to allow Mr. Roosevelt's friends to have enough power to endanger the success of Mr. Taft, however much noise they may make in attempting it. American political ethics clearly indicate that President Taft should be the nominee of the Chicago convention. The committee manifestly intends that everything shall be "regular." It may seat some of the Roosevelt contesting delegates, but it is going to be extremely discreet in its generosity in this direction.

The Twelfth district is distinctly the debtor of Ex-Congressman Clarence C. Gilhams, whose death occurred Wednesday afternoon at his home in Lagrange. Mr. Gilhams threw into his congressional career all the vim and energy of a tremendous capacity for work, and while he lacked adroit political skill and his own public career suffered by reason of it, his public service was conscientious and distinctly useful. His death will come as a personal sorrow to many friends who knew him intimately as a kindly, generous and considerate gentleman whose life was above reproach.

The Cleveland gentleman who, representing somewhat more than half the stock of a railroad company, held a stockholders' meeting all by himself a day or two ago, elected himself chairman of the board and then solemnly adjourned, appears to have overlooked one or two enticing possibilities. He might have voted himself an increase in salary and then declared a dividend in favor of himself.

Speaking of steam rollers, the unit rule appears to have answered the same purpose in Ohio, and it has the advantage of the sanction of somewhat more years of effectual usage than the other device.

With so distinguished an array of Indiana newspaper men and Indiana statesmen "in our midst" today, can you blame Fort Wayne for feeling swelled up just a bit?

NEWEST PRESS IDEAS REGARDING PRIMARIES.

"Disillusioned."

Washington Post: "The primary system comes far from realizing the hopes of those who advocate it on the ground that the people's voice should govern as directly registered at the ballot box. The most enthusiastic supporters of the system a little while ago, including the press and the reformers, acknowledge themselves disillusioned and are calling for something different."

"Lasting Rancor."

Portland Oregonian: "The primary campaign engenders such lasting rancor, inflicts such deep wounds, that it becomes well nigh impossible for the loser to give the winner that hearty support in the campaign for election which party loyalty requires."

Vote Unexpectedly Light.

New York Globe: "In one respect the presidential primary has been a disappointment. Upon the whole, taking all the primary states togethr, the vote has been unexpectedly light. All other signs show greater interest than the public has taken in any ante-convention campaign since 1884."

"Fate of the Nation."

Philadelphia Ledger: "This preposterous preference primary puts the fate of the nation to the hazard by a test which would be wholly ridiculous were it not so gravely dangerous. The tests have shown what experienced men knew before the event—that any man with the arts of popularity can defeat, on a platform of buncombe and demagogy, the ables statesman or the most self-sacrificing patriot."

Leaders.

Philadelphia Record: "Anyhow, it is a closer approach to popular control of parties to have the nominations made by 50 per cent. of the voters than by a corporal's guard of self-appointed leaders."

"Have Come to Stay."

Toledo Blade: "Presidential primaries have come to stay. Even the old guard, which hates the primaries as it hates the progressive movement, admits that none of the states which has adopted any scheme of the sort will go back to the old form of things."

Guess.

Boston Advertiser: "Both the republicans and the democrats have absented themselves from the direct primaries to such an extent that it is impossible for any man to hazard any safe guess as to what the people of the country want."

WELL, LET IT GO AT THAT.

(New York Times.)

It is a noteworthy fact that Mr. Charles Warren Fairbanks, of Indiana, gained his newest honor as amateur champion billposter by pasting on a wall a three-sheet cartoon of himself. If his job had been to paste up a cartoon of some other eminent statesman, doubtless he would have performed it as neatly or as expeditionsly. In the circumstances, though Mr. Fairbanks may have won the prize fairly, we must feel that his competitors were handicapped.

If, for example, Mr. Fairbanks had been assigned to display on a billboard a poster of Mr. George Ade, one of his rivals in the competition, he might have got it all topsy turvy, that being Mr. Ade's own favorite way of representing himself and his convictions to the public. Or if Mr. Fairbanks had been called upon to post a cartoon of a rough rider or a pompadoured Wisconsin patriot, the hesitancy which would have been naturally engendered by the dubious quality of the subject might have left him with nothing better than the booby prize.

We say these things in all courtesy and kindness. In troublous times like these it is refreshing to find a foremost statesman so surely the captain of his soul and master of his fate that he can afford to take part in an amateur billposting contest. This should be rare fun, and doubtless will become popular. We also congratulate Mr. Fairbanks on his comparative failure as pitcher in the subsequent baseball contest at the Indiana picnic. He does not need the glory that belongs to a curved ball. He belongs to the old school and throws straight for his mark. Mr. Fairbanks is a man without curves. As he does not depend on baseball for his livelihood, we like him better for this deficiency.

BRYAN SAID IN HIS ARTICLE FOR THE SENTINEL THAT THERE WILL BE TWO CONVENTIONS AT CHICAGO, AND HE IS WILLING TO CONCEDE HALF THE REPUBLICAN VOTE TO T. R. AND HALF TO TAFT.

All Questions Answered Relative to River Improvement.

By Municipal Ownership and Civic Improvement Committee.

CHANGE OF SENTIMENT.

Question: I learn that a good many men composing the Municipal Ownership and Civic Improvement Committee were at one time opposed to municipal ownership of our river frontage. Does your committee find any considerable change in the opinions of those heretofore opposed, and if so, what has caused this change of sentiment?

Answer: Yes.

Reason: The change in sentiment has been brought about by a better understanding of the question. Every day we hear of others who have been opposed, coming out n suppiort ofthis movement. Perhaps nothing has had so much effect as the visits of many thousands of our people to Foster park, where they have had an opportunity to see the possibilities of our river banks for park and recreation purposes.

Municipal Ownership and Civic Improvement Committee.

CONSOLIDATED CHURCHES.

Kansas has another idea and is pushing it with her accustomed zeal. The new idea is "Church Concentration." Already she has abandoned over 100 small country churches with their poor accommodations, squeaky organs and ill-paid, mediocre preachers. She expects to abandon 1,000 more.

These old churches are converted into houses, barns or workshops.

Now don't imagine that religion is declining in Kansas.

"Just the contrary," say the leaders of the new movement; "but automobiles, thousands of miles of good, dirt roads, together with the demand for fine preachers and good music, are doing the business.

"The poor churches can't compete with the good ones, for people go miles in swift vehicles to get what they want in the way of religious services."

But there is more to it than this—a lot more. The denominations are drawing closer together. They arrange to take turns in having a service of their own, but everybobdy goes just the same. Then, too, they have decided to keep their churches open every day in the week and to install libraries, reading rooms and attractive places for innocent games and social affairs.

Isn't it an interesting evolution, though, and one that promises great gains for religion, brotherhood and contentment?

BRIGHT'S DISEASE

We submit the following as our ideas of the probabilities under Fulton's Renal Compound in Bright's and kidney disease:

Where patients are seriously weakened and crisis may be expected in from ten to twenty days probably not more than ten per cent to twenty per cent respond. Where physicians aid by holding up the heart, increasing the eliminations, etc., the efficiency can be increased. In cases where patients have from thirty to sixty days of life we look for correspondingly better results.

Where patients do not wait until bedridden we believe three-fourths can be controlled and that in cases that take the treatment on the appearance of the disease that nearly nine out of ten will respond with final recovery or prolongation of life.

Albumen, casts and dropsy do not prevent recovery. The point is that the renal inflammation should be attacked before the heart and recuperative powers are too greatly weakened.

Fulton's Renal Compound is used both with and without physicians' prescriptions. The motive of the Renal Compound being to relax the kidney (the Old School having nothing to reduce inflamed kidneys) it will be seen that the heart, eliminative and tonic treatment usually prescribed in Bright's and kidney disease do not conflict but are often required in extreme cases. It can be had at the D. & N. Pharmacy.

Ask for pamphlet.

We desire patients not improving the third week to write us. Literature mailed free. John J. Fulton Company, 445 Battery San Francisco, Cal. We invite correspondence with physicians who have obstinate cases.

HEALTH REQUIREMENTS FOR MARRIAGE.

(New York World.)

A report from Topeka states that the probate judge of Kansas will hereafter demand certificates of health from prospective brides and bridegrooms, and that they have incorporated these requirements in a bill they will have introduced into the legislature at its next session. From Cleveland comes a like report that the federated churches of that city will urge similar legislation in Ohio. In Illinois the lead given to the movement by Dean Sumner, of St. Paul's cthedral, has been strongly supported.

In these days almost any sort of project for regulating conduct by legislation seems to acquire a vogue and a following by the mere fact of publicity. If the initiative and referendum should ever be widely adopted we should have issues of this kind precipitated upon us so frequently that we should have to hold elections once a month. There are already ample safeguards and restrictions upon marriage—more, in fact, than we are able to apply with reason or to enforce with firmness. Who could frame a code or an examination test of health? What physicians could administer it if framed?

Marriage is not undertaken solely for the propagation of the race. Some men and women marry because they love one another, and sickness or weakness does not diminish the love. There are still a few matters in respect to human relations in which the rights and wihhes of the individual deserve consideration.

CHINA AND THE BANKERS.

We have been celebrating the "freedom of China" and here she is going into debt for $250,000,000 to the bankers of the United States, France, England, Germany and Japan on condition that agents of said bankers shall supervise her debts.

You can be mighty "free" until you get hard up for cash, and then you have to see your uncle and dance to music. China will be as free as circumstances permit, and her creditors are the "circumstances."

KING OF SOLID COMFORT.

Th new ruler of Denmark, King Christian, succeeds to the throne of a fine little country that minds her own business and finds it a paying proposition. Denmark has a foreign trade of $108 per capita. Germany, with all her bluster, has only $60.

Denmark's soil is settled in very small highly cultivated areas and her people carry co-operative trade and industry further than any other nation. A land without vaulting ambition but with lots of solid comfort.

DOING BUSINESS RIGHT.

A recent observer says that "the Panama canal has cost $400,000,000 and not a cent wasted—all the leaks stopped." Yes, and never a strike and progressive decrease in cost of living and a pestilential old isthmus made sanitary—and all that.

Should think that some of those trusts that can't help boosting prices because everything goes wrong with 'em would apply for a detachment of the United States army to show 'em how to do business on business principles.

ABSTRACT AND CONCRETE.

Who is this Dr. Spitzka, anyway? He has been sitting up nights weighing masculine and feminine brains and solemnly avers that "the female brain is usually characterized by a smaller frontal lobe," from which he shrewdly deduces that "women will never be the equal of man in abstract mental conception."

That is the reason, perhaps, that you sometimes see a lazy husband discussing abstract problems of the universe at the corner grocery, while his wife is engaged in the concrete proposition of taking in washing to support him.

There is no real need of anyone being troubled with constipation. Chamberlain's Tablets will cause an agreeable movement of the bowels without any unpleasant effect. Give them a trial. For sale by all dealers.

GIVEN PURSE OF MONEY.

Pastor Remembered by Congregation on Birthday Anniversary.

In view of the fact that today is the birthday of Rev. A. K. Zartman, the pastor of the Grace Reformed church, the congregation perpetrated a pleasant surprise on him at the church supper given Thursday evening by the ladies at the church. After the supper the members assembled in a group and calling Dr. Zartman into their midst the superintendent of the Sunday school, W. F. Close, in an appropriate speech, presented the pastor with a purse containing a handsome sum of money. It was a complete surprise, but the response was neatly and feelingly made. Dr. Zartman has recently completed his twenty-fourth year as pastor of the church here and it has prospered greatly under his ministry.

Remains Are Brought Back for Interment

MRS. WILLIAM P. MORRIS.

The remains of Mrs. William P. Morris, formerly of this city, who died Tuesday at Chicago, were brought to this city for interment. Accompanying the remains were her three children, Homer, Harold and Hanna Bell Morris, a sister, Mrs. Frank Chofel and husband, and C. J. Eme, C. J. Aniton and Frank Shofer.

Mrs. Morris was born February 10, 1867, and was married at Chicago February 2, 1889. Surviving besides her three children are two sisters, Mrs. Frank Chofel and Mrs. Louis Goudy, both of Chicago. Mrs. Morris was the wife of W. P. Morris, one of the first engineers on the Western division of the Nickel Plate. He died eleven years ago.

of nearly 2,000 men began cheering and a rush was made for the first early morning cars.

Violence Starts Early.

The first one was met on Tremont street near the hall. The car was stopped, the trolley yanked from the wire, the windows smashed and the motorman and conductor badly beaten. A number of passengers were rushed out of the car, although none was injured.

As the clash was proceeding a mail car suddenly came into sight, and recognizing the authority of the government those who had stopped the first car suddenly ceased their activities and permitted both cars to resume their way.

A few minutes later word of the strike had reacher the vicinity of the North station, and there two other cars were stopped, windows smashed, some of the gearing disabled and several passengers were slightly injured by flying glass. Several arrests were made at this point.

More Arrests Made.

A crowd coming from the direction of strike headquarters encountered several cars on Adams street about 6 o'clock, where more violence ensued. Two arrests were made here. One of those taken in custody was charged with assault on a policeman and the others with inciting a riot.

A dozen men rushed down into the Cambridge subway as the first car was about to start and tried to persuade the train hands to join them. They were unsuccessful, but held up the starting of the trains for nearly half an hour. About the same time four of the new semi-convertible viaduct cars were so badly smashed that the traffic between Cambridge and Boston was completely blocked for several hours.

The outbreak in Charleston was almost as severe, while similar occurrences took place in Everett and Chelsea. It was announced during the forenoon that the actual vote in favor of a strike was 1,389 to 8.

The strike committee claims that up to the time of calling the strike today 3,200 men had signed union papers and had paid the initiation fee. At the same time the company issued a statement that 3,500 employes were still loyal and that every effort would be made to keep the car system in operation.

Four hours after the strike began cars were running on nearly all lines, but with about half the usual frequency.

the past, it would be greatly preferable to be governed by strangers," says the statement. "We are not making war against foreigners and hope they will not take sides in this conflict."

Estenoz continues that he has learned that American mining companies have armed their Gallego laborers, and that he has warned them that if the laborers are permitted to fight the insurrecters, "We shall retaliate by killing every Gallego on whom we can lay our hands."

Estenoz declares he regretted burning the buildings of the Spanish American Iron company, but did so to "notify the world that I had undertaken and was conducting a revolution in Cuba.

"Any agreement that I might make with the government of Cuba for the settlement of this affair would have to be concluded in the presence of a representative of the United States and only upon the assurance of this representative of the United States would guarantee the absolute fulfillment by the Cuban government of the agreement, as the officials of that government have made many promises to me and so far none of them have been fulfilled."

cover the entire field, but left certain powers to the states in the regulation of inter-state commerce in foods.

With the declaration that the commerce court was not to substitute itself for the interstate commerce commission, the supreme court in decision after decision today reversed the commerce court and upheld the interstate commission. The principal decisions were announced by Chief Justice White and concurred in by the entire court.

The supreme court reversed the commerce court's decision which would have allowed railroads to carry railroad fuel coal at lower rates than commercial coal. Jurisdiction of the commerce court over complaints of shippers denied by the interstate commerce commission, as well as over those recognized by the commission through affirmative orders for relief, was denied by the supreme court.

ENSLEY DID NOT FINISH UP TASK

Offered to Lick Two Patrolmen But Couldn't Manage One Man.

CITY COURT DOCKET

Along about 2 o'clock this morning Clem Ensley offered to lick Patrolman George Galentine and said as soon as he finished up the job he would go and get Patrolman Bert Smith.

One good reason for not licking Smith is that he didn't quite get through with Galentine. Ensley has been in half a dozen times and he was sleeping across a Superior street sidewalk this morning when Galentine woke him up and told him to go home.

He told the officer he wouldn't and then let him in on his plans to clean up the two partolmen. He fought hard but was lauded and he drew $15 and costs from Attorney William Geake, who presided in place of Judge Mungovan.

The Other Cases.

The case of William Haggerty was continued until June 14. He is charged by his partner, John D. Johns, with appropriating to his own use about $100. The two were engaged in conducting a second-hand store.

William Wilson, plain drunk, was held until tomorrow and John Baughman, charged with loitering, was allowed to go on his promise to quit abusing his family.

TRUANT OFFICER WINS BOYS' LOVE

He Goes After Them in an Entirely New Style.

NO HARSH MEASURES

Phoenixville, Pa., June 7.—One of the claims made with much pride by the local school authorities is the almost complete absence of truancy, and those who know give much of the credit for this fine condition to the intelligent activity of the town's truant officer, William S. Armstrong, and the popularity he has won among pupils. There is probably not another truant officer in the state who has such a record of achievement in his line as has Officer Armstrong, and for five years he has worked with singular effectiveness.

Truancy used to be much in vogue among Phoenixville schoolboys, and the new truant officer started in to break up the growing practice. Speaking of his early experience, and describing his methods, Officer Armstrong said: "I did not go about my work in the hammer-and tongs' method. I went to work quietly, got acquainted with the habitual truants, visited their homes and sought out their haunts.

"I talked with the parents and tried to arouse in them some interest in their boys' school work, and asked them to give some sign of interest and encouragement to the boys.

"I learned the location of all the favorite swimming holes, the nut groves and the most popular resorts where boys would go to play or hide. I visited the swimming holes, not only on school days, when necessity demanded it, but on Saturdays and holidays for the purpose of joining them in a swim and getting better acquainted. I have grown to know all of the 'live wires' among them intimately, and I think they are all my friends."

PUBLIC TO HEAR LEADERS TONIGHT

Everybody is Welcome at Princess Rink Meeting.

EYES ON FORT WAYNE

The mass meeting at 8:15 this evening at Princess rink, will be a sort of democratic party reunion. The meeting is open to the public and leading democrats of the Indiana, representing each of the thirteen congressional districts, will be conspicuous.

In other words, the democracy of Indiana will meet this evening in what may be called the first official campaign assemblage of the year. In addition to state, district and county officers, hundreds of enthusiastic democrats, whose ambition is to see the state ticket carried to victory, will attend the meeting and join with others in hearing Governor Marshall, Judge Ralston and Congressman Cline, the speakers.

It will be at the meeting this evening that Indiana democrats begin preliminary steps for the coming campaign, and one of the principal features will be the address of Governor Marshall. Mr. Ralston will also deliver his first campaign address from the public platform.

Political Eyes on Fort Wayne.

Political eyes from all states in the union are directed toward Fort Wayne this evening and interesting news is expected to emanate from this city at the close of the session, which will be the most important held in the state since the last national campaign. Newspaper writers from all parts of the country have flocked to the city for the meeting, desiring to get in on the ground floor of the state democracy in view of the coming contest. Governor Marshall has been more than assured that the support of the entire state will be tendered to him, and the delegates are all forceful, determined leaders who mean what they say and set their words to action.

ORDERS PROBE OF THE LOAN SHARKS

One Concern at Indianapolis Made Charges Equal to 69 Per Cent.

GRAND JURY TO ACT

Indianapolis, Ind., June 7.—Judge Markey, of the criminal court of this county, today directed the grand jury to make a thorough investigation of the chattel loan business and to begin at once by calling in the men who are engaged in that business.

The recent disclosures that one loan company made charges equal to 69 per cent interest on a small loan which it made to a laboring man, was largely responsible for the action of Judge Markey. He declared such violations of the law must cease. The grand jury was instructed to return indictments against all those in the loan business who have been charging illegal rates of interest.

Under Judge Markey's orders all the books and ledgers of the loan companies will be examined by the grand jury and thus the names of the "victims" will be ascertained. Judge Markey said he would employ a bookkeeper and a stenographer to assist the grand jury.

BERGER STARTS WAR ON HANFORD

Begins Impeachment Proceedings Against Federal Judge.

MAKES HOT CHARGE

Washington, June 7.—Representative Berger, the socialist member from Milwaukee, today began impeachment proceedings against Federal Judge Hanford, of Seattle, who recently deprived Leonard Olsen, of that city, of his citizenship because he was a socialist.

Representative Berger charged Judge Hanford "with high crimes and misdemeanors, a long series of corrupt and unlawful decisions, and being a habitual drunkard." He asked that the judiciary committee investigate.

The department of justice is already assisting Olsen's attempt to have Judge Hanford's decision re-opened.

FELL IN SYLVAN LAKE.

Local Man Had Narrow Escape After Getting Strike.

After casting for several hours at Rome City Thursday, Art Freistroffer, cashier at the Wayne hotel, finally landed a strike, and in the excitement following fell into the lake. In going over the side of the boat, the latter was pushed a great distance away from him and the young man swam nearly a quarter of a mile to the shore. Mr. Freistroffer is none the worse today for his experience, but declares he was terribly exhausted by the long swim and horribly disappointed in losing the only strike of the day.

CAN YOU LIVE ON $9 A WEEK? TWO COUPLES TRIED IT AND FAILED.

Two Husbands Tried An Experiment in Domestic Economy and Both May Go to Jail—One Tried Living in City, Other Camping—They Failed.

Seattle, Wash., June 4.—Two Seattle young people, absurdly young, got married the other day. They tried living in the conventional way, within four walls—on $9 a week. The experiment failed miserably. The $9 a week wasn't enough. The 16-year old husband, Gordon McPherson, was found guilty by a jury in Judge Ronald's court of wife abandonment.

Another Seattle couple, also absurdly young, got married the other day. Perhaps they saw the futility of trying to live conveniently within four walls on what the 17-year-old husband could earn.

They tried the simple life.

They went to Mercer island, in Lake Washington, equipped only with a blanket each and a small quantity of provisions, and for four days and nights led a primitive existence, cooking their meat at a camp-fire and sleeping beneath the stars.

And the 17-year-old husband, Howard Hanlon, was sent to jail.

Society imposed conditions which made it impossible for a couple to live in decent comfort on $9 a week. Gordon McPherson and his wife tried it, and made such a mess of it that the boy quit in despair. And society, shocked, haled him into court for having failed to surmount the impossible conditions which it itself had imposed.

Howard Hanlon and his girl-wife tried to evade the conditions which wrecked the connubial ship of Gordon McPherson by going back to the first principles of living. And society, shocked, chucked him into jail and sent his wife back to her mother.

Gordon McPherson was an usher in a popular-price theatre. Whether or not it is good for 16-year-old boys to be so employed is neither here nor there.

It was at the theatre that he met Louise, the girl who became his wife. Whether or not it is wise to permit 16-year-old girls to go unattended to theatres is not material here.

They got married, and Gordon got a job as clerk in a store at $9 a week. He testified in court to his domestic finances. They were:

Rent of flat.....	$16.00 a month
Installments on furn..	10.00 a month
Gas, cook and lights ...	2.50 a month
Food, 50c a day.....	15.00 a month
Total month expenses ...	$44.00
Month income (about) ...	30.00
Monthly deficit	$ 5.00

He stuck it out for two months, by the end of which time there was borne upon his mind the critical fact that $9 a week will not keep two persons in anything approaching decent comfort.

So he quit trying and stands liable to a term in the penitentiary.

Gordon McPherson and Howard Hanlon are pretty similar types, and both familiar. Both are "city wise." Both are "swell dressers." Neither knows a trade.

Howard Hanlon is an overgrown but handsome boy, who delights in exaggerated fashions in dress. He has always been harum-scarum and has evidently been allowed to go his own gait unhindered.

The other day Howard and his wife, who were living with her mother in a houseboat at the foot of Madison street, disappeared. Later a deputy sheriff found them camping out, sans tent, on Mercer island. They seemed happy and well. There was no rent to pay nor fuel to buy. So long as there was a meal ahead, they had no worries.

To what extremes they were prepared to carry the simple life, the young people themselves do not know. Sufficient unto their day was the evil—and joy—thereof. Tomorrow their larder might be empty. Tomorrow their clothing might be in tatters. Neither is proficient in woodcraft, or in the use of, say, the bow and arrow or the stone hammer. And Mercer island does not abound with game, especially furred game.

Still, they might have worked out the problem. But society has notions concerning the propriety of young people living in such fashion. It is neither nice nor proper.

Young people should live in houses or flats, and pay rent, and earn wages, and have office hours, and meet their bills promptly, and obey society's laws, written and unwritten.

So, for their own good, the deputy took Mr. and Mrs. Hanlon out of their Arcadia and into custody. Howard was put in jail, from which he was released on habeas corpus. And little Mrs. Hanlon was returned, weeping and penitent, to her mother.

TAX ON GUN TOTERS.

Mississippi Congressman Would Curb Shooting Spirit.

Washington, June 7.—Representative Thomas Upton Sisson, of Mississippi, has proposed a new law to curb the warlike spirit of Americans and has introduced a revenue measure which would impose a heavy tax on "gun toters" and venders of deadly weapons.

His bill stipulates that from July 1, 1913, every such weapon stored in any warehouse, wholesale or retail establishment in the United States must bear a revenue stamp which will cost $2.50 and 25 per cent ad valorem in addition.

HEN GIVES A TIP.

Gives Her Owner Warning of Impending Danger.

Bellingham, Wash., June 7.—Samuel Mullin, for ten years a member of the city council, attributes the fact that he was nearly killed in an automobile demonstration at Vancouver, B. C., to the fact that he failed to take the warning signal thrown out to him by his old Leghorn hen.

Upon the morning of his departure Biddy strove thrice, valiantly but ineffectually, to crow.

"Just as I started out to take the train," says Councilman Mullin, "the old hen trotted into the path and tried to crow.

"'Better not go to Vancouver, Sam,' said my wife; 'the old hen is trying to crow, and you'll surely get hurt.'

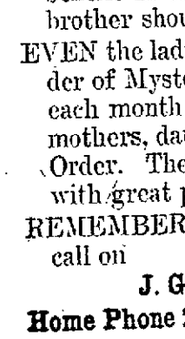
"'Pshaw!' I said, and the first crack out of the box when I climbed onto the Vancouver fire rig we had a collision and I nearly got killed. I will pay more attention to Biddy after this."

Why Women Are Not RICH.

Man is a millionaire many times over in the possession of blood cells. Woman is not quite so rich, for scientists have proven that the normal man has five million—the woman only four and a half million to a cubic millimetre of blood.

A decrease in number of red blood corpuscles and a person "looks pale"—in fact, is anaemic, the blood does not get the right food and probably the stomach is disordered.

Dr. R. V. Pierce found years ago that a glyceric extract of golden seal and Oregon grape roots, queen's root and bloodroot with black cherrybark, would help the assimilation of the food in the stomach, correct liver ills and in Nature's own way increase the red blood corpuscles. This medicine he called Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. By assimilating the food eaten the system is nourished and the blood takes on a rich red color. Nervousness is only "the cry of the starved nerves for food," and when the nerves are fed on rich red blood the person looses those irritable feelings, sleeps well at night and is refreshed in the morning.



J. D. LIVELY, ESQ.

"I was attacked with a severe nervous disease, which was caused by a disordered stomach and liver," writes MR. JAS. D. LIVELY, of Washburn, Tenn., Route 2, Box 33. "All my friends thought I would die and the best physicians gave me up. I was advised to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and derived much benefit from same. My case had run so long, it had become so chronic that nothing would effect a permanent cure, but Dr. Pierce's medicine has done much for me and I highly recommend it. I heartily advise its use as a spring tonic, and further advise ailing people to take Dr. Pierce's medicines before their diseases have run so long that there is no chance to be cured.

NEWSPAPER AS A POLITICAL FACTOR

Importance Emphasized by Mr. Gwin in Talk to Editors.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

President Frank Gwin, of New Albany, addressing the Indiana Democratic Editorial association at the Elks' temple last evening, discussed "The Newspaper as a Political Factor," and closed by declaring that prospects for democratic success in the state and nation this year are very flattering. In part Mr. Gwin said:

"It has not been so many decades since the hustings, the torchlight processimon, pole raisings, burning of red fire, the unfurling of flags to the breeze, the yells and shouts of the faithful, and similar methods were considered the most convincing arguments why a political party should be entrusted with power, and the most forceful methods of conducting campaigns. Little thought was given to appealing to the intelligence, reason and good sense of the people through the medium of the newspapers of the country. It was noise and enthusiasm, big demonstrations and partisan feeling, an appeal to their prejudices and passions that captured the people and carried along as a surging mass to the close of the campaign. These were the methods of conducting campaigns within the memory of many of those who are present upon this occasion. But, as a matter of fact, the newspapers did their part in every campaign, and without doubt exercised far more influence than many of the political speakers who were considered the 'whole thing.' But the people did not give the newspapers credit ten, fifteen and twenty years ago for the part they were doing in bringing the truth home to them.

People Are Different.

"How different it is with the people at this time! The voters take their county newspapers, and by their family firesides learn from them of the issues before the people; they read the platforms of the political parties; they study the economic problems of the day; they bring their own welfare into the equation and measure the effect of the several planks in the platforms, if put into force, upon the prosperity of the country and the perpetuity of our republican form of government. They have in this way become students of the economic questions of government and in this regard have become better and more patriotic citizens, and if possible more ardent Americans in spirit, in zeal and in that calm deliberation which makes for a greater and more democratic form of government.

"Indeed, the people in all parts of the country now depend upon the newspapers to bring them the news of the movements of the leading political parties day by day and hour by hour. The American people are anxious to learn of the events in a great political campaign, and where, my friends, do they look for it? Do they not eagerly grab up the first paper that comes their way and every extra that is issued in order to get all the news and to get it quickly? And whether or not they are willing to acknowledge the newspaper as their surest, quickest and most accurate source of information, they do it by their actions.

"The great Henry Ward Beecher said: 'A newspaper is a window through which men look out on all that is going on in the world. A good newspaper keeps a man in sympathy with the world's current history. It is an ever-unfolding encyclopedia; an unbound book forever issuing and never finished.'

The Power of the Press.

"To give an adequate idea of the power of the press in a political campaign, I have only to refer to the papers published by the members of this association, representing as they do a definite policy, a platform of principles which has the welfare and prosperity of the whole people as the underlying foundation upon which the edifice of democracy is built; a patriotism as broad as human thought and a faith born of truth, strengthened by conviction, ready to be molded into public sentiment and brought into 250,000 Indiana homes every week, covering the state as with a blanket of true political doctrine fifty-two times a year, and a large part of the state three hundred times a year. An eminent writer has said that 'a newspaper can drop the same thought into a thousand minds at the same moment. A newspaper is man adviser who does not require to be sought, but comes to you briefly every day of common weal, without distracting your private affairs. To suppose the newspapers serve only to protect freedom would be to diminish their importance—they maintain civilization.'

"Think for a moment what a power the concerted action on the part of the democratic press of the state means, and what far-reaching influence it wields. Especially is this true when the position of the party represented by these papers is right and is working in the interest of the people for whom it acts, as is the democratic party at this time; when, by its fruits you may judge it favorably, and when by its fidelity to its pledges in the past you can rely with confidence upon its promise for the future.

Must Meet Conditions.

"The power of the press is measured in a large degree by its liberty of thought, its independence of action, its belief in the cause it represents, the vigor and ability with which its truths are presented, and its faithful adherence to the right at all times and under all circumstances. Every publisher knows that the influence his paper wields depends largely upon whether the policy it represents is on the right side of public questions. The reading public is discriminating and has a way of ascertaining whether the paper reflects the true condition of affairs, and demands more of the modern newspaper than in times past. The publisher must meet these conditions and fulfill the wishes of the public for the truth if his publication is to be an influence in the community in which it is published.

Successful Outlook.

"The prospects for democratic success in the state and nation in 1912 are most propitious and alluring: the issues are well defined and the attitude of the democratic party upon all public questions is in the interest of the great army of the common people who constitute the bone and sinew, the brawn and muscle, the brains and intelligence, and indeed the very life blood of the nation. And right here it might be well enough to say that it will devolve upon the democratic press of Indiana to carry on the campaign for the party this year, there being no democratic state organ for the party at Indianapolis. In fact, it will be necessary for the country press of the state to combat the influence and to counteract the political harm that is done by two great republican-independent newspapers published at our capital city. The democratic state officials, our twelve representatives in the national congress and our two United States senators have faithfully discharged every duty and performed every service pledged to the people by the party's platform, and have by their anxiety for and their efforts to promote the public weal, given the country reasons to believe that in the success of the democracy at the polls in November next, the people's interests will be best subserved; a democratic success will insure relief from the burdensome taxation of the toiler, and compel the participation of the wealth of the land in the payment of its full proportion of taxes upon incomes and inheritances; will mean a reduction of tariff duties on the necessities of life and the placing of the burden upon the luxuries; the lowering of the present high cost of living, and many other measures for the benefit of the people.

Will Force the Fighting.

"With this record the democratic press of Indiana can and will force the fighting all along the line; it can keep its disorganized opponents upon the defensive and will be found in the forefront and on the firing line and doing picket duty for the party, while others are peacefully and serenely resting through the long hours of the nights before the election, and knocking the persimmons and enjoying the emoluments of the spoils after the election.

"The measure of democratic success the people are now enjoying, I believe I can modestly say, is largely due to the united and loyal services of the democratic press of the country, and just such service will bring further honor to the party and greater benefit to the people in November."

In honor of former Fort Wayne ladies, Mrs. Amy Randall Seavey and her daughter, Mrs. C. A. Merriam, both of Portland, Ore., who are visiting relatives here, Mrs. Walter Seavey gave an informal and beautiful reception from 3 to 6 o'clock. Many old friends of the two guests were invited to call and the affair was enjoyed by many ladies of both the younger as well as the older matrons of society. In the receiving line, too, was Miss Emma Siboni, of Copenhagen, Denmark, who is the guest for a few days of Mrs. Henry Ranke. Mrs. Seavey's home was fragrant with out-door blossoms, peonies, sweetpeas, syringa and wild flowers, which were arranged in all the rooms. The assisting ladies in the rooms were Mrs. Clark Fairbank, Mrs. O. N. Guldlin, Mrs. W. H. Shambaugh, Mrs. John A. Shoaff, Mrs. F. B. Shoaff, Mrs. Charles Lang, Mrs. Herbert Lang, Mrs. D. F. Urbahns.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Fletcher Hall, of West Wayne street, celebrated their crystal wedding anniversary on Wednesday and in honor of their guests, Mrs. Lucy Fletcher Hines, of New York city, and Mrs. H. B. Hall, of Indianapolis, as well as in observance of the day, entertained friends at dinner in the evening. The dinner table was suggestive of a wedding anniversary with its big wedding cake with bride and groom dolls standing on its frosted top. The floral decoration of the rooms was peonies and of the table wild roses and asparagus fern. The appointments were very lovely.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry Ranke, of Beaver avenue, gave a small bridge party last evening in honor of their guest, Miss Emma Siboni. The guests were young married people. Tomorrow afternoon Mrs. Ranke will entertain Les Causeries du Mardi club for the same guest and on Sunday Dr. and Mrs. Ranke plan to motor to Wawasee. Miss Siboni will leave for the east on Monday as she plans to spend the summer abroad. In the fall Miss Siboni will return to Chicago to visit her sister, Mrs. Theodore Ruhland, and at that time will probably visit in Fort Wayne again.

Two beautiful parties in honor of Miss Virginia White, whose marriage to Roger I. Fisher will be a quiet affair of the coming week, have been given by intimate girlhood friends of Miss White. Today Miss Helen Morris gave a luncheon of lovely appointment at her home in West Berry street. Pink and white peonies and other flowers of the season contributed beauty to the scene and further set off the attractive appearance of the bevy of young women present. The guests were Mrs. W. H. Kelly, Mrs. Dan N. Beers, Mrs. Miles F. Porter, jr., Miss Jessie Orr, Miss Dorothy White, Miss Evelyn Fisher, Miss Esther Fleming, Miss Linda McKinnie, Miss Alma Dreier and Miss Florence Lang.

Miss Evvelyn Fisher gave a dinner bridge at the Country club last evening in honor of Miss Virginia White and Roger Irving Fisher. Covers were laid for twenty. The dinner was distinguished by charming arrangements of flowers. Rose pink and white peonies and syringa blossoms decorated the center of the table and at each plate were nosegays for the ladies and boutonniere for the men. The flowers were old-fashioned pinks, sweetpeas, snapdragon and outdoor roses arranged English nosegay fashion with lace paper holders. The place cards were novelties, those for the men being held by tiny bride dolls, while the ladies found good luck parasols at their places.

The Bell Has Struck on the Narrow Skirt, Says The Sentinel's Fashion Expert.

BY MALBELLE MORTIMER.

While this gown, made as in the illustration, of black taffeta, white crepe and Venetian lace, is too elaborate and expensive for any but the most formal dress, yet I saw it carried out the other day in cotton voile, striped gingham and embroidery, making a most individual and charming frock for a young girl.

The white cotton voile skirt was trimmed with white all-over embroidery in the same manner as the lace is put on the dress illustrated. About the bottom, instead of the band of silk, there was a bias band of the gingham, which was two shades of yellow in color.

Yellow is to be one of the popular colors this summer.

The tunic waist trimming and sleeves were of the striped gingham and the waist was of voile, with embroidery. A little edge of white embroidery was turned back on the tunic of gingham.

Almost any girl with a dressmaking talent could make a dress of this kind from this picture and if carefully fitted and finished, it would have all the style of the original.

Different colored sleeves from the bodice are to be very popular this season and almost every gown will have some sort of an overdress or tunic.

The day of the straight, narrow skirt has passed.

LITTLE JOURNEYS INTO FASHION LAND.

Some of the smartest new shoes to wear with white frocks are made of white kid, long and narrow in shape, trimmed with quite a large bow rosette and oval buckles. On the contrary, the modish evening shoe is cut with a view to making the foot look smaller, and is cut very short in front and with Louis heels. A dainty satin strap shoe is a popular shape for dancing and this is often ornamented with mother-of-pearl and sequin trimming.

There is quite a wave in favor of buckles this season, and the buckled shoe is the most popular of any. Some of the newest Parisian designs are very beautiful and can be transferred from one pair of shoes to another as often as desired.

There is a large range of delightful fabrics for summer frocks. French ginons with color printed borders are among the most attractive novelties, and there are some beautiful laces and chiffons which hold out most alluring prospects for manipulation into smart gowns.

To wear over such soft materials may be mentioned also the new black shadow lace cloaks, which give grace and distinction to the whole. A striking note of smartness is a gold net sunshade mounted in gold chiffon or silk or over black or white lace. An all-gold sunshade is a fascinating finish to an all white or all black gown, or it blends charmingly and harmonizes with dresses which are trimmed with gold laces.

Violet and cerise, gold brocaded, are among the most attractive, and green and vieux rose with silver are other harmonies.

some improvement, but as it was could not be condemned under Chicago ordinance.

"Rub-no-More" soap works—Apparently no let up to dense commission of black smoke.

City mills—Fair chance for some improvement.

Nickel Plate yards and round house—Fair, but chance for considerable improvement.

Noticed L. S. & M. S. yard engine switching; made no smoke for a period of thirty minutes, and engine was constantly moving.

Wayne Knitting mills—Dense smoke, apparently getting fires started; fair after.

Foster waist factory—Made dense smoke; stack small; in constant use.

After 8:40 a. m. conditions changed considerably and there seemed to be a lesser degree of dense black smoke emitted from all stacks on factory buildings.

Approved for publication.

By O. N. GULDLIN,
Chairman.

Report of Committee "A" of the Technical Committee of the Fort Wayne Civic Improvement Association.

Mr. O. N. Guldlin, Chairman Technical Committee. Dear Sir: The undersigned beg to submit the following report and recommend as follows:

First. The use of a good grade of so-called smokeless coal, adapted to the specific furnace by every manufacturer in this city. Experience of those who have made experiments along this line shows that this will not only go a great way towards overcoming the smoke nuisance, but it actually saves dollars and cents.

We want to say in this connection that the coal which is the cheapest at first cost is rarely, if ever, the most economical to use, and even coal that runs high in B. T. U. and is sold at a high price, may use its full value or the greatest part of its efficiency under adverse conditions. In other words, you cannot expect to get satisfactory results in the burning of coal unless there is a sufficient grate area, with the proper ratio of air opening to grate area according to the fuel used, sufficient draft and some common sense used in the firing.

Therefore, this committee recommends that smoke stacks of a proper height be used, and endorses recommendations of committee B, C and D.

Second. That all downtown buildings use either a West Virginia so-called smokeless coal (which is a soft coal), anthracite or hard coal, in preference to any other coal for the heating of the downtown buildings. We feel sure that the merchants would be glad to use this kind of coal, as it would save to them thousands of dollars each year which they now suffer because of damage to their merchandise, interior decorations and fixtures. With hard coal much less care is needed in the firing, but with soft coal, no matter where you buy it, there is more or less smoke and soot, due very largely to the carelessness in firing and insufficient draft.

Third. We desire in this connection to call every merchant's attention to the experience that the Indiana School for Feebble Minded Youth has had in the heating of its buildings, and they have tested all methods of firing. Mr. Carroll states that hard coal is a great deal cheaper for them to use when everything is taken into consideration. When they use soft coal for the heating of their buildings it was necessary for them to paint the woodwork in their buildings once a year, on account of the dirt that came from the furnace. Now you can readily understand that this same condition exists in every furnace that burns soft coal, regardless of the care that may be exercises in the firing. When you appreciate the thousands and thousands of dollars that merchants have on their shelves that are affected by this dirt, that arises, you can readily see that they could save themselves considerable money if they adopted and used a coal that would not give them this trouble and expense. It would be a great advertising point for the dealer to mention the fact that they use hard coal; therefore their goods are cleaner than the competitor's who uses soft coal in the heating of his buildings.

Fourth. In case merchants are unfavorable to the use of hard coal because of a wrong sense of economy, then certainly a good grade of West Virginia so-called smokeless coal should be used. In this case, the committee respectfully recommends the employment of a good, sensible, experienced man, with police authority, whose duty it shall be to instruct all downtown janitors in the proper method of firing and to insist upon their doing so. This will eliminate the smoke nuisance, and inasmuch as proper firing means fuel economy, it is our opinion that every merchant would welcome the day when an experienced man stepped into their place of business for the purpose of instructing, recommending and insisting upon proper firing.

The question of liquid fuels, such as kerosene, etc., is under consideration and will be the subject of a later report.

Respectfully submitted,

W. C. RASTETTER,
F. J. THIEME,
A. S. BOND,
WM. BREUER,
A. E. CARROLL.

Discussed and approved for publication by committee of sub-committee chairmen.

O. N. GULDLIN,
General Chairman.

THE VALUE OF CASHMERE.

Cashmere is well to the more for inexpensive gowns, and in its silk ariety for elaborate dresses. It may be trimmed with braid, black or colored, or with galon or passementerie, and sometimes the trimming forms the outline of a coat upon the skirt portion of an all-in-one gown.

One of these is ornamented with pearl buttons and imitation buttonholes, a mode of trimming that looks very smart and is yet quite inexpensive. The neck is finished with a narrow yoke matching, the undersleeves coming from under the straight, plain sleeves to the elbows.

HOMEY HINTS

Clean Walls.

A mop of cheese cloth strips, an inch and a half wide and eight inches long, made fast to a light handle, is the best thing for keeping a papered wall clean. Brush the paper well with it twice a month. Every spring and fall mix cornstarch, whiting and powdered Fuller's earth in equal parts, dip the mop into the powder, and rub walls and ceiling well with it. Then shake all powder from the mop, cover it with a damp flannel. Go over the wall again, wiping in long straight strokes.

Jot it Down.

When putting away the children's winter clothes, jot down in a note book just what will be needed for each child another year. Where there are several children this will prove quite a help when buying for them.

Saves Stain.

In paring vegetables, especially the odorous onion, slip over the forefinger of the right hand a kid finger cut from an old glove. It will save the hand from an unsightly stain.

Invalid's Food.

A pound of finest round of raw beef is very strengthening food for the invalid who can take it. Trim off fat, slice two small onions, season with pepper and salt. Chop altogether until reduced to almost a pulp. Spread on thin slices of bread and butter; whole wheat or rye bread is best. Put another thin slice on top to hide the meat—which tastes better than it sounds, or looks.

Curtain Hanging.

Mounting curtains on brass poles will be much easier if a thin piece of cloth is put over the end of the pole. The pole will go through without catching the material.

To Clean.

When the perforations in a percolator become clogged, the coffee requires more time to cook and is apt to be muddy-looking. Use a teaspoonful of oxalic acid crystals to a pint of water, and let it percolate about twenty minutes. Then clean with a stiff brush. Lye or any gritty substance cannot be used on aluminum.

BASEBALL ATHLETICS

OWNER GREETS HIS SQUAD AND PRAISES THEIR WORK

Claude H. Varnell Tickled to Death With the Performances of His Troupe of Ball Players.

[Special to The Sentinel.]

Wheeling, W. Va., June 7.—Owner Claude H. Varnel had his ear to the ground long before the arrival of his troupe of Billiken ball players who arrived here late today and he congratulated every man on the squad for the excellent work done in the games at Youngstown and Erie where they pulled an even break out of a six-game series and gave the leaders of the eastern division some awful scares in the games that went to the opposition.

The jump from Erie is a long, tiresome affair, and the men were not in the best of condition when they arrived, but they are full of enthusiasm and feel sure that they will return home with at least nine victories to their credit.

The Stogies are playing better ball now than when they returned from a rather disastrous trip in the west and Manager Edward J. Anderson will do his level best to beat the Billikens. The fact that Claude H. Varnell lives here and has a big acquaintance has created a rivalry between the clubs and both of them will be on their metal in the series scheduled for today, tomorrow and Sunday.

It is Art Loudell's turn to pitch today and when the club went to Island park this afternoon Manager Shaughnessy had picked him to do the hurling. Since his experience at Youngstown he has been warned about cutting down his windup with men on bases and it is not likely the same sort of stunt will be pulled on him again that was pulled in the Youngstown game when he lost by allowing a man to steal home with the winning run.

Harry Martin is about ready for regular duty again after his recovery from an injury that has had him half disabled since he got back into harness at Erie.

BATTLING BILLIKINS WIN OUT.

Take Tough Game From the Sailors In a Rattling Rally.

Erie, Pa., June 7.—While the Fort Wayne team put up some mighty entertaining ball during the stay here most of the supporters of the Gilbert crew are not sorry that Manager Shaughnessy and his men have gone and glad that the locals pulled one game out of the series.

Magnificent courage marked the play of the Fort Wayne team in all of the three games on the local lot and in none of them did it stand out more prominently than when the opposition came from behind in the closing innings, routed a pitcher that had had the club eating out of his hand all afternoon and won by a margin of one run in the opening half of the ninth inning. The score was 6 to 5.

First Baseman William Clancy, who has been a terror to local slabmen again batted his way to fame in the encounter and his stick work was largely responsible for the Fort Wayne victory over the Sailor men.

Alberts was hit eleven times and only seven were yielded by Watkins and Sterzer, but the hits were bunched by Shaughnessy's men and were more prolific. Colligan hit in the third inning and Alberts passed the next three men, forcing one run over and Gilbert's single sent over two more. Manager Shaughnessy was just about to call in a rescue man when Alberts settled down. Schang and Colligan each hit for doubles in the sixth and another run went over and in the seventh Anderson scored when Anderson's drive bounded by Blount.

Keener scored in the seventh on a hit, a pass to Fabrique and a couple of outs and Vandagrift opened the eighth with a single. Shaughnessy hit for two bases and Clancy splashed in with a single and Keener was passed, filling the bases with none down. Sterzer went in and forced a man over by passing Fabrique and a fumble of McLafferty's grounder yielded one more run. Scott threw wild in the ninth on Vandagrift's grounder and the runner went to second. Shaughnessy hunted him to third and Clancy scored him with a double.

CALBERT WITH STOGIES.

Hard-Hitting Outfielder Is Let Out by Terre Haute.

Wheeling, W. Va., June 7.—Outfielder Calbert has been let out by Manager Grant and is now playing with Wheeling. Calbert has played in 15 games, batted 15 times, scored eight runs and made 15 hits for an average of .333. He should be of great assistance to the Stogies. He is playing right for Anderson's squad. Calbert was used by Grant because of the injury to Fick and Miller, and with the return to the game of these favorites, the tall lad was not needed.

HARDEN TO JOIN CLUB ON MONDAY

Owner Claude H. Varnell Secured Return of His Star of 1911.

PROVIDENCE LET GO

George Washington Harden, star pitcher of the Fort Wayne team of 1911, has been purchased from Providence in the International league and will join the Fort Wayne players at Zanesville on Monday.

For three months Owner Claude H. Varnell has been on the trail of this hurler and had hoped to land him long before this, but Providence had a lot of confidence in his ability to make good and was slow to let him go. He had a bad arm early in the spring and didn't get as good a start as he expected to, but the fact that he was held this late in the season indicates that he must have shown some form.

He was obtained by a straight purchase and is the property of the Fort Wayne club. Just who will be let go to make room for him is a question, but unless Tal Stafford makes a better showing in his next start than he did in his last, it is likely that he will be returned.

If Harden is in condition and his arm is as good as it was when he finished here last fall he will be of great aid to the Billikens. He knows how to pitch, is stronger under heavy fire than at any other time and if he hasn't gone back he will brace the club.

Announcement is made by the Grand Rapids team that Ed Smith has bought the release of Pfeffer, a "left-handed pitcher," from the Denver club and that he will join the Blackstockings at once.

This is probably big Ed Pfeffer who was here a couple of years, but unless he has changed his style of delivery very materially he is not a southpaw. He was offered to Fort Wayne, but close personal friends of Owner Varnell advised him against taking the pitcher, giving as a reason that he had not recovered from an attack of blood poisoning.

Grand Rapids is in dire straits for pitching material, and as the club must be up in the first division to make Bert Annis' new plant a paying investment it is likely he has taken the pitcher on an option. He was offered to Smith while the Grand Rapids team was playing here.

Tydeman, the new outfielder procured by Smith, was with the Erie club of the O. & P. league last season. He batted at a .298 clip and fielded .930. Tydeman goes into right field, supplanting Midge Craven, who apparently is doomed to utility duty for some time to come. Midge is a grand little fielder, and would fit well on a team which had a few more sluggers than the Grand Rapids outfit. He can get himself to first base almost as often as any man who pastes the ball into the outfield habitually, but Midge is no cleanup guy. Therein lies the tale of his relegation to bench duty.

Denver is way down in the running in the Western league race and Manager Jack Hendricks is sending out cries for aid. The club has won less than half its games and three seasons of pennant winning has not fitted the patrons for this kind of play.

Jack Rowan, a former Dayton pitcher who was a sensation in the Central circuit a few years ago and who has since belonged to Cincinnati, Philadelphia, Chicago and Louisville, has been bought by Hendricks in the hope that he will be able to bolster the Grizzlies.

HAMLET TO HOLD BOOSTER DAY.

South Bend Back to Small Town Tactics to Hold Baseball Club.

(South Bend Tribune.)

In view of the weather jinx which for nearly a month followed the South Bend Greenstockings and depleted the treasury the directors of the local association could well take a hint from the action of the Zanesville club and arrange a boosters' day for the club when the team returns home from its long eastern trip. Zanesville, like South Bend, has been unusually hard hit by the weather and expects to make up a portion of its losses by setting aside two days for the sale of tickets to the business men and fans of the city. It is figured that the people of that city will come quickly to the rescue and that from 4,000 to 5,000 of them will invest from 50 cents to a dollar in the purchase of tickets.

PHILLIPS HOPES TO MAKE PROFIT

Says He Will Sell Some of His Men at the End of the Season.

CONFIDENCE IN CLUB

Youngstown, O., June 7.—Manager Bill Phillips, who won a pennant for Wheeling when he was in the Central league a few years ago, is confident that he has the best baseball team in the Central league and that he will be well up in the race at the finish.

So far he has shown his metal and has been able to hold his own right around the top of the percentage column and he has given ample evidence that he knew the caliber of the league when he framed up his club.

Phillips says he is not sure that he can finish so far up in the race as he is now, "but I certainly will sell some ball players at the end of the season."

Last year Phillips sold $9,000 worth of pastimers. Of course all of that amount doesn't represent clear profit. For instance, Chicago paid $4,000 for Mosley last fall, but Phillips had to pay $1,500 to get him back this spring. Phillips thinks he will be able to dispose of the pitcher for three or four thousand again this fall, in which case it can be seen that his ownership of Mosley has been very profitable.

The leader of the Youngstown hosts also expects to dispose of Ainsworth and Stevens at good round sums at the end of the year. He realizes that the best profits are made in pitchers and he is developing these three youngsters. He likes Ainsworth the best, as he says that the red head "knows as much about pitching now as I did after I had been through the big 'show.'"

Scott and Sheer are two additional men that Phillips thinks he will be able to sell at the end of the season. He partially developed these men last year, but under his tutelage this summer they should develop until he is able to get a nice round sum for the pair of them.

In Boucher the chief of the Steelmen had a windfall. This player was buffeted around the International league and American association with no takers until finally Louisville turned him over to Youngstown. He has played wonderful ball for the Steelmen and the manager already scents another golden harvest.

Altogether wise old Bill Phillips has it figured down to a system where it pays to develop young players, and handsomely, too.

T. AND C. LEAGUE NOTES

Walda has quit the game. A sore arm has bothered him, and he will take a rest. Walda has been with the Shamrocks several years, and has been a good, hard worker for the club.

Wabash wants the Shamrocks for a morning and afternoon game on July Fourth.

Garrett will be here Sunday in a Trolley league game with the Shamrocks. The team will become strong, and is banking on the pitching of Oestermeyer. Garrett will present a line-up of experienced players, and the game should class with the battle between Auburn and the Shamrocks last Sunday.

BOND PROCEEDS EXHAUSTED.

Present Administration Will Not Issue More Panama Securities.

Washington, June 7.—The entire proceeds of the Panama canal bonds of 1961 issued less than a year ago, have been spent. The last of the loan was wiped out yesterday by the progress of the waterway that will sever the American continent. Officials of the treasury do not contemplate issuing any more canal bonds during the present administration.

Secretary MacVeagh today disbursed $1,000,000 for the construction of the ditch. The amount not only exhausted the proceeds of the bonds and their premiums, but in addition deducted $559,000 from the general fund of the treasury.

FIGHT FANS ARE IN TOUGH LINES

Las Vegas Holds Out Little Promise for Those Who Expect to Go.

GREASERS AND SAND

Philadelphia, June 7.—H. F. Lang, formerly of Philadelphia, well known in the insurance business, is now residing at El Paso, Tex., not very far from Las Vegas, where it is proposed to pull off the Johnson-Flynn fight.

Writing to a friend in this city recently, Mr. Lang, who is a very ardent boxing fan, says: "My, oh my! How the sports that go to the Las Vegas fight will be stung for accommodations! In October last they held the republican state convention there. The delegates numbered 316, and the hotel was packed.

"There are, however, a number of empty houses, and the town is going back. They have about 1,200 less inhabitants than they had two years ago, due to the cut off of the Santa Fe, which put a railroad shop at Belen. Las Vegas claims a population of 12,000, but truthful people, and there are perhaps two or three in the place, say they have 8,000, half of whom are Mexicans, who live in the old town across the Galenas river.

"Montezuma is not a town. It is simply a hotel that the Santa Fe built, but it was a failure. It is about eight miles from Las Vegas, in the mountains.

"There is but one railroad that reaches Las Vegas, and that is the Santa Fe. The only first-class hotel is the one connected with the railroad, where they serve Harvey meals at 75 cents each, and they are really worth the money. They can accommodate about 120 in the dining-room.

"The other hotels are small and there are but four or five and none of them has 50 rooms, some with about 20.

"Las Vegas is situated in a valley and when you reach the mesa lands, about four squares from the center of the town, the eye sees nothing but sand, prairies and skies. There are no suburbs, and no towns for miles and miles. No farms, no growth of any kind but a little shrub that nothing but a goat can live on, and some cactus."

According to Mr. Lang's description of Las Vegas and the surrounding country the sports will have little to amuse themselves with outside of the fight, but a chance to play Old Maid or some other form of card game.

GIRL'S LOVE FOR DOLL SAVES LIFE

But What She Thought Was Doll Proves to Be Babe in Water.

SOME INDIANA NEWS

Connersville, Ind., June 7.—A little girl's love for dolls was the means of saving the life of three-year-old Earl Webb, who floated a square in the canal and was hauled out barely in time to prevent his death. The little boy is a son of Howard Webb and wife, of Southeastern avenue, and not much larger than a big doll.

Several little girls were crossing the canal bridge at First street when Violet Miller exclaimed: "Oh, look at that big doll in the water. I'm going to get it." Violet hurried down the bank. Then she screamed, for she saw that what she thought was a doll was a little boy, floating with his head under water. Two men were near and they lifted the unconscious boy out of the canal and soon revived him. Earl told his mother a few hours later that he was sitting by the canal, a square above the place where he was rescued and that a big red-faced girl came and pushed him into the water. The police are investigating the child's story.

Man Accused of Theft of Beer Cites High Cost of Living.

Muncie, Ind., June 7.—Arraigned in city court on a charge of stealing 1,200 bottles of beer belonging to a Cincinnati brewery and consigned to local saloon keepers, Charles Evans offered these facts in his own defense:

His family had just been increased by the advent of a son.

The cost of living is constantly increasing so that a dime now does not go as far as a five cent piece did in former years.

That wages for unskilled laborers are as low as they were twenty years ago.

This so impressed Judge Frank Feeley, of city court, that he suspended sentence.

Judge Frank Ellis said that he suspended sentence because the prisoner was needed by his family, consisting of a wife and six children.

publicity conceded by the committee yesterday Taft and Roosevelt leaders faced their first definite test of strength in the taking up of the Alabama test cases.

The part Wm. Flynn, of Pennsylvania, will take in the presentaton of the contests will be unknown until Mr. Flynn arrives late tonight with news of his Oyster Bay conference.

Lines were sharply drawn for the opening fight in the contests for delegates. With publicity assured for the whole presentation of the 238 or more contests, the republican national committee was prepared to take up the cases with all possible dispatch.

The Alabama contests were ready to be taken up by the committee when it convened at 10 o'clock. Both sides were prepared with evidence and contesting delegates to uphold their claims to the legality of their respective delegations.

Where Cases Rest.

The Alabama cases were declared by the Taft attorneys to rest upon the regularity of the state republican organization presided over by Pope M. Long, state chairman. Six delegates-at-large and two disitrict delegates each in the First, Second, Fifth, Sixth and Ninth congressional districts, sixteen in all of Alabama's twenty-four delegates, were involved in the contests.

Under the contest rules adopted by the national committee when it organized yesterday attorneys on each side were given thirty minutes to present evidence and arguments in the case involving the delegates-at-large and fifteen minutes to each district case. It was expected that several of the district contests would be grouped together to shorten the hearings. Oscar R. Hundley, of Birmingham, was present to assist Ormsby McHarg and Bainbridge Colby in arguing the rights of the Roosevelt delegates. Former Senator Charles Dick, of Ohio, and Major F. C. Bryan, the Taft attorneys, were aided by many members of the Alabama Taft delegation.

Strong Array of Counsel.

When the Alabama cases were called a strong array of counsel appeared on each side to open the fight for delegations upon the outcome of which the republican presidential nomination is supposed to depend. Ormsby McHarg, of New York, and Charles Dick, of Ohio, appeared as chief counsel, respectively, for Col. Roosevelt and President Taft. With former Senator Dick were Frederick C. Bryan, of Washington, his associate counsel, O. D. Street and S. S. Pleasants, members of the Taft delegation-at-large from Alabama and W. S. Reese, J. J. Curtis and A. C. Birch, representing the contested delegations in the congressional districts.

Mr. McHarg was assisted in presenting the Alabama cases by Oscar S. Hundley, of Birmingham, one of the Roosevelt delegates at large, and the Roosevelt leader in the state. Associated with the Roosevelt attorney was Bainbridge Colby, of New York, who is aiding in the contest fights.

Basis of Taft Claims.

The Taft claims to the Alabama delegates at large, six in number as presented to the committee by the president's representatives were substantially as follows:

In August, 1911, republican factions in Alabama came together in a convention under a suggestion from President Taft to compromise long standing differences. That convention, it was claimed, selected Pope M. Long, state chairman, superseding J. O. Thompson, and selected six delegates at large to the republican national convention. When the republican national committee met in Washington in December, 1911, it invalidated any election of delegates that had taken place prior to its meeting.

State Chairman Long called another convention in Birmingham, March 7, 1912 and the delegates at large were re-elected, in conformity with the national committees' official call. Later Senator Dick claimed that Mr. Thompson, the former chairman, issued another call for a separate convention at which the contesting delegates at large were chosen.

Repudiated Agreement.

"After Col. Roosevelt announced his candidacy for the presidency," he said, "Mr. Thompson repudiated the written agreement he had entered into a year ago, pretended that the entire proceedings of the convention held in August, 1911, were illegal and void and pretended to call together the old state committee of which he had been chairman. Three members of the old committee responded to his call, out of a total of 41 members.

"The Taft delegates at large were elected by a state convention duly called by the new state committee of which Pope M. Long is chairman. There can be no question about the legality of the election."

In the first congressional district cases the Taft attorneys declared the organization established by the republican convention in Alabama had been ignored and that a separate convention had been called by J. O. Thompson and N. L. Steele to elect Roosevelt delegates and "who occupy no official relation to either the state or congressional committees."

Regulars Were Ignored.

In the Second district it was claimed the regular organization also was ignored and the Taft forces further charged that the Roosevelt convention had been held outside the boundaries of the Second congressional district without issuing of notices or without the holding of county conventions. In the Fifth and Eighth districts the Taft adherents charged the Roosevelt forces with working through "rump" or "bolting" committees and in the Sixth district it was claimed that eight men had selected the district delegates at a meeting at Birmingham.

Borah Issues Warning.

Senator Borah said he knew the other side had the votes to seat any delegates they desired to.

"But ninety millions of people are watching this committee's sessions," he said, "and unless the record is clear it will be charged that all interests were not given fair treatment."

"I do not think the majority of the committee is going to seat any one who ought not to be seated; but I do insist that the minority in each case be given an opportunity to record their votes.

"Why should we not leave this record clear, so that charges of misrepresentation or fraud cannot be made against us?"

Senator Borah's motion was tabled by a viva voce vote. This result crystallized the impression that the 39 to 13 vote of yesterday really represents the relative Taft and the anti-Taft strength in the committee. The members from South Dakota and Wisconsin are generally accredited to the La Follette interests.

The motion to table was made by Dennis Flynn, representing C. M. Cade, of Oklahoma. Senator Borah demanded a further chance to be heard.

Chairman Rosewater held that the motion to table was undebatable.

Refuses to Be Gagged.

"I don't care. I will not be choked off or gagged this early in the campaign," declared Mr. Borah. "I know there is a 'steam roller' here, but I intend that the country shall know how it operates."

Chairman Rosewater insisted on putting the motion. Senator Borah meantime demanding recognition. He was at last given unanimous consent to conclude his remarks.

The committee by a viva voce vote then tabled the motion.

"The committee will be run in conformity with proper parliamentary law," declared Chairman Rosewater. "When a motion is made and seconded to lay a motion on the table parliamentary law holds that it cannot be debated."

The committee then called the case of the Alabama delegates at large, the first contest case to be taken up.

On motion of Senator Penrose, consideration of the Arizona case was deferred until a later day. The Alabama case was taken up at 1:15 o'clock. The Roosevelt attorneys presented their delegation at large as the "regular delegation," their official brief, distributed to the committee, bearing that title.

"Long" and "Thompson" Crowds.

The two Alabama delegations appeared before the committee as the "Long" and "Thompson" delegations, taking the names of the rival republican state chairmen. Chairman Rosewater called upon the Roosevelt attorneys to open the arguments as the credentials of their delegations were filed last.

"There is no contestant or contestee before this committee," said Secretary Hayward. "Both delegations are treated on the face of their credentials as regular and the order in which these arguments shall proceed is based on the date of filing the credentials."

The Roosevelt attorneys, led by Mr. McHarg and Mr. Hundley, claimed complete regularity for their delegates. They asserted that J. O. Thompson and his delegates had been recognized by the republican national convention of 1908 as the "regular or Thompson faction."

"The said chairman, J. O. Thompson, and secretary, N. L. Steele, have performed up to and including the completion of their duties in calling and holding a convention to choose delegates to this convention all duties devolving upon them within said state as the lawful representatives of the republican party within the state."

Mr. Hundley charged that the "Long," or Taft delegates, had been chosen at the convention of August, 1911, which was illegal, he said, so far as the selection of national delegates was concerned. State Chairman Thompson, he said, had been elected in 1908 for a term of four years and could not be superseded except by the election of a successor by a regular republican state convention in Alabama, called by the state committee.

Mr. Hundley declared that such a regular convention never had been called.

Hundley Explains It.

Mr. Thompson regularly called for May 11, 1912, a regular state convention, said Mr. Hundley, and that convention selected the Roosevelt or Thompson set of delegates to the Chicago convention. The Roosevelt attorneys declared the convention of Aug. 31, 1911, at which Pope M. Long was ostensibly elected chairman, resulted from an agreement with President Taft to settle questions of patronage. The action of the national committee in Washington last December in declaring illegal the "Long" delegates served at the August convention also invalid or acts of that convention including the selection of Col. Pope M. Long as state chairman, Mr. Hundley contended.

The Roosevelt attorneys claimed that Thompson in an effort to avoid the contest at Chicago proposed to Long a state primary for national delegations, but that Long would not agree to this.

Interruptions Frequent.

Senator Borah, Senator Penrose and Frank B. Kellogg interrupted frequently with questions as to regularity of the Thompson convention of May 11, 1912, and as to the number of members of the republican state committee who joined with Mr. Thompson in calling the convention. The "Long" or Taft side began its argument at 11:35. O. D. Street, of Guntersville, Ala., taking the floor.

"Is there any law in Alabama regulating the election of a state committee?" asked F. B. Kellogg.

"No."

"Did not Mr. Thompson in July, 1911, call a convention to settle local affairs?"

"Yes."

"Was there anything to prevent the selection of a new state committee at that convention?"

Mr. Hundley replied no, but that the convention acts had been invalidated by the call of the republican national committee issued in Washington last December. Mr. Hundley admitted that a majority of the old Thompson committee had answered the call of Pope M. Long, the new chairman for the convention, at which the Taft delegates were elected.

ENDORSEMENT FOR WILSON.

North Carolina Democrats Were in An All-Night Battle.

Raleigh, N. C., June 7.—After an all-night session the state democratic convention elected eight delegates at large to the Baltimore convention and by a vote of 503 to 396 endorsed Gov. Woodrow Wilson's candidacy. The delegates were uninstructed, but six are said to favor Governor Wilson and two are said to be neutral. The convention was a tumultuous one and adjourned at 6:39 o'clock this morning. Each delegate will have a half vote.

The convention battled until after midnight last night over the nomination of a state ticket and a resolution endorsing North Carolina's state officers and representatives in congress. Friends of Governor Kitchin vainly endeavored to prevent the endorsement of the record of Senator Simmons, whom the governor is opposing for re-election. Locke Craig was unanimously nominated for governor and candidates for other state offices were chosen without opposition except E. L. Daughtridge for lieutenant governor and George P. Pell for long term corporation commissioner, who won after hard fights.

The nine delegates at large are: Ex-Governor B. R. Glenn, W. C. Dowd, E. J. Justice, Gen. Julian S. Carr, Major E. J. Hale, A. W. McLean, W. C. Hammer, Lieut. Gov. W. C. Newlan and W. F. Dortch. Francis D. Winston and A. Ellis Gardiner were chosen for electors at large.

CLEAR ASKS FOR $10,000 DAMAGES

Man Injured When Capt. Borgman Was Killed Files Suit

AGAINST PICKARDS

Robert B. Clear, who was injured in the collision that cost the life of Capt. W. F. Borgman, has entered suit in the superior court against Harry R. and Peter E. Pickard demanding $10,000 damages.

He says in his complaint that his right arm was fractured near the shoulder, his right leg was crushed, two ribs were broken on the right side and a number of other injuries were sustained which have permanently disabled him. In addition he says he was compelled to give up a contract that would have yielded him $1,000 every six months and that he will never be able to take up this work again.

The collision took place on April 15 of this year, on Wells street, and Capt. Borgman's skull was fractured. Negligence is charged on the part of John Bovie, who was operating the Pickard motor truck at the time. The complaint says that he was running at a high and unlawful rate of speed and that he did not use proper care to avoid striking a light delivery wagon in which Clear was riding at the time. Judge John H. Aiken filed the suit.

Notes of the Courts.

A circuit court jury returned a verdict for $450 today in favor of Elvin J. Wilkinson against the Geyser Oil Tank company. His original demand was $7,500 and the company offered him $150 in a compromise.

In the superior court Daisy Thain was granted a divorce from George Thain and the latter was given the custody of their child. She got $100 alimony.

ADDS CYCLONE CELLAR.

Elwood Man Adopts Safeguards in Deference to Wife.

Elwood, Ind., June 7.—After having his home fitted with burglar alarms, fire extinguishers and lightning rod appliances of every description, Melvin Reavis, a wealthy shoe cobbler, has just completed the building of a large cyclone cellar put down at a cost of $200. Reavis says he does not fear calamity more than any other man, but he has spent more than $1,000 on these precautions because of his wife, who is of a very nervous disposition. Twenty years ago a cyclone passed over this vicinity, and Mrs. Reavis recently dreamed that this would be repeated in the near future.

RAISES UNIQUE POINT.

Is Railroad Liable for Lawless Acts of Mob It Carries?

Washington, June 7.—Whether a railroad that carries a mob to a town to lynch a man is liable to damages to the victim's children is a unique point to be brought before the supreme court of the United States. The case was presented today with a request to review.

Mrs. Annie May Rogers and three children sued the Vicksburg, Shreveport & Pacific Railroad company on charges of having carried by special train a mob from Monroe, La., to Tallulah, La., where Rogers was lynched. He had been charged with murdering a man and was about to be released on the ground that he had been tried once before on the charge.

The lower federal court held, that as a matter of law, the railroad might be liable.

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON.

JUNE 9 | SUNDAY, JUNE 9. Lesson Text—Luke 6:39-49.

Last week we had from the lips of Jesus three illustrations of that false righteousnes which he will not countenance in his new kingdom. Today's lesson is the last of the present series which has to do with the fundamental teachings expressed by Jesus in his manifesto and it is emphasized by the Golden Text taken from James' epistle.

Jesus begins with a short parable which, though not recorded by Matthew as being used in this same connection is here used to introduce and to explain what was said about the mote and the beam. Parenthetically Jesus informs us that we are not above our Master. We must teach principally in the same manner he taught, e. g., by our lives. He has been setting forth the manner of life to be followed by his disciples. He is the incarnate truth, and in that fact lay his power and success as a teacher, so as we incarnate his life, live his life before the world, we shall most successfully teach. His sight was unimpaired, hence his ability and power. Jesus, however, guards against any self-assumed righteousness upon the part of his followers by telling us that "everyone," that is every disciple, "when he is perfected shall be as his master." (v. 40.) No leader or teacher has ever made any great and lasting contribution or impression upon history except as he has in a measure emulated the life of Jesus or followed the principles he taught the world.

Beam and Mote.

It is as we are being perfected, follow on after perfectness in Christ Jesus, that we are effectually able to see for ourselves and to lead others. Jesus by means of this teaching about the beam and the mote shows us how impossible it is for a man who is himself disobedient to the truth to be able to do anything that will help others who are in a like state of disobedience. He plainly implies that it is not only impossible but actually a sin for one who has a beam, a "splinter" in his eye to attempt to remove the mote—a light speck of dust—from the eye of another. The sin of attempting to teach that which we ourselves do not obey is greater than the sin of him who is not obedient but makes no attempt to teach the truth and called forth the emphatic "thou hypocrite" of Jesus. How many fathers desire their sons to walk in the path of truth and yet they make no effort to remove the beam from their own eyes—hypocrites—is it to be wondered at that they both fall into the ditch?

Jesus emphasizes all of this by use of the figure of fruit-bearing. The preposterousness of our looking for figs upon thorn bushes, or to look for grapes upon a bramble bush is patent to all. We know that corruption is not so much a matter of infection as it has to do with inward purity. If the tree of life is pure it will yield perfect fruit, for life always reproduces its own type, in the same manner the influence a man exerts is the influence of what he is in his own life.

In verse 46 Jesus adds further light upon this matter of hypocrisy. He has already told us we are to build upon his words, which were the truth. Now he shows us that to call him "Lord, Lord" with lips only, and not because of a heart conviction, even though it be known and heard of all men, will not avail. This sort of crying aloud shall be tested by him who knows the thoughts and the intents of the heart and it, too, shall receive the just reward of all hypocrisy. To cry "Lord, Lord," to judge others by different standards from those by which we judge ourselves, is but another evidence of the sin of selfishness.

Obedience the Only Proof.

If we will real Paul's epic upon love (I. Cor. 13) daily it will clarify our vision and correct the motive of our lives so that its fruit will be acceptable to God. Obedience is the only one and only acceptable proof that we are friends of Jesus (John 15:14). To further add light and significance to this whole matter Jesus tells us of the two kinds of foundations upon which men build. That upon the solid rock may be severely tried, as shall all the works of man's hands, but being rightly founded the storm breaks and not the house.

Is your house founded upon the living word or upon the speculations of science? Face this question we must.

WOMAN BOUND, HEAD DOWN.

Thief Then Breaks Open Children's Banks and Steals Savings.

Camden, N. J., June 7.—Mrs. Annie Chambers, the wife of a Pennsylvania railroad engineer, was attacked by a robber in her home and bound and gagged. The thief went through the house and took what money he could find. Two little children of the woman were locked in another room.

Mrs. Chambers put up a hard fight. When she was exhausted and helpless the man bound her, feet up and head down, to a bed post. He broke open four small bank in which the children had placed their savings and got $40 from them.

The noise made by the cries of the children attracted neighbors, who released Mrs. Chambers. She was able to give a good description of the thief and the police believe they will capture him.

The Two "Lews"

"The mayor of Indianapolis will never get it."

AT ONE TIME Lew P. Sharp, deputy revenue collector, had aspirations to occupy the mayor's chair of Fort Wayne, though circumstances seemed to decree otherwise. But now Mr. Sharp feels a little recompense in the fact that he has been confused with the mayor of Indianapolis in an incident which occurred this week.

In his morning's mail Mr. Sharp received a remittance in the form of a money order for $2.09 from W. H. Hayes, a cigar maker at Plymouth, Indiana. The order was made out to "Lew P. Shank," the mayor of Indianapolis.

"But," said Mr. Sharp, when he succeeded in figuring out how the error occurred, "the mayor of Indianapolis will never get his paws on that $2.09. Uncle Sam has already credited Mr. Hayes with the amount and sent word to him to be a 'leetle more careful' next time."

MASTER CAR BUILDERS MEET

Delegates to the Big Annual Event Now Moving Eastward.

WILL BE BIGGEST GATHERING OF ALL

Brotherhoods to Hold Joint Memorial Services Next Sunday.

The Master Car Builders' association will hold its annual convention at Atlantic City next week, beginning Wednesday morning, and the Master Mechanics' association will hold its convention at the same place, commencing the following Monday. It is believed that each convention will eclipse in a numerical way any previous meeting. Delegates have already commenced to move towards Atlantic City, but the vast majority of them will not start until Sunday and Monday. T. W. Demarest, superintendent of motive power of the Pennsylvania Northwest system, leaves this evening for Pittsburg, where he will look after some railroad matters and go thence to Atlantic City Monday. Master Mechanic Adam LaMar, of Chicago, is in Atlanta, Ga., looking after some business for the company, and he will go thence to Atlantic City early next week. Chief Clerk W. L. Wilt and Assistant Motive Power Engineer O. C. Wright, of the Pennsylvania, with R. J. Fisher, of the Bass Foundry and Machine company, will leave on the Pennsylvania Manhattan limited at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon for New York and go from that place to the convention city Tuesday. REGARDING FAITHFUL SERVICE.

Pennsylvania Gives Easy Runs to Old Conductors.

The Pennsylvania company has again demonstrated its desire to reward faithful employes and to make the latter years of their service as light as possible in the cases of Conductors C. E. Ross, John F. Shean and Maurice Prindiville. This trio has to its credit a combined and continuous service of 129 years and each member has only a few years to serve until he reaches the age of compulsory retirement with a pension. Each had charge of a passenger train many years, but the remaining years of his service will be as conductor of a fast mail or express train, on which his duties will be very light and the earnings equal to the earnings of the conductors on the high class passenger trains. These men will take turns in handling westbound fast mail No. 40 and fast express No. 17 and east bound express train No. 48, having the greatest lay over in Chicago, where they hold their residence. Conductor Ross took employment with the company in 1864 and has been in the service 48 years; Mr. Shean began work in 1868, 44 years ago, and Mr. Prindiville began work in 1875, 37 years ago. Mr. Ross took charge of a passenger train in 1871, Mr. Shean in 1885 and Mr. Prindiville in 1890.

They will be off duty a few days.

THREE CARS WRECKED.

Wabash Has Mishap at New Haven This Morning.

Three cars of a westbound Wabash freight train which left Montpelier last night were derailed as the train was crossing the Nickel Plate tracks at 3 o'clock this morning. Two of the cars went over on their sides soon after clearing the Nickel Plate tracks and the other one went crosswise of the Wabash tracks, but remained upright. Fortunately none of the crew was on that part of the train and nobody was injured. The car which rested on the tracks was soon picked up and the road opened and the wreck crew went out later to pick up the cars that were thrown into the ditch.

ALUMINUM TRUST AGREES TO QUIT

Decree is Duly Entered in Federal Court at Pittsburg.

SOME CONTRACTS OFF

Pittsburg, June 7.—For the purpose of destroying the alleged substantial monopoly of the so-called aluminum trust, an agreed decree was entered in the United States district court here today against the Aluminum Company of America.

Following closely the prayer of the federal government in its civil anti-trust suit filed a few weeks ago charging the corporation with monopolizing the industry, the decree abrogates alleged unlawful contracts and restrains the defendant company from negotiating similar pacts or pursuing unfair methods toward competitors.

The decree was consented to by the aluminum company as a result of protracted negotiations with Attorney General Wickersham prior to the filing of the suit. The mandate was drawn and accepted by both the government and the defendant long before the suit was initiated. This is the first time a decree has been agreed upon under the Sherman law before court proceedings had been started. The company is forbidden to participate in any combination or agreement to control the output or prices of aluminum. It is enjoined from combining, by stock ownership or otherwise, with other manufacturers for this purpose. The decree places a long list of specified unfair methods to competitors under the ban of the court.

Provisions of alleged agreements to suppress competition between the aluminum company and the so-called Swiss or Neuhausen Company of Europe, the General Chemical company, the Norton company, the Pennsylvania Salt Manufacturing company and Gustave A. Kruttschnitt and James C. Coleman, both of Newark, N. J., are abrogated by the decree.

Whenever it is shown that substantial competition has arisen in the aluminum industry, the decree may be modified upon the production of evidence that it is working an injustice. Application for modification cannot be made oftener than once in every three years, however.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORING TOWNS

GARRETT ENJOYS A BUILDING BOOM

Erection of the B. & O. New Roundhouse Accompanied by Building of Many New Residences.

Garrett, Ind., June 7.—The building of the new roundhouse of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad, the erection of which is now in progress, has given Garrett a genuine building boom and many new residences will be erected this summer. The B. & O. in the building improvements which it will make here this summer will spend $300,000. The amount to be invested in new dwellings it is estimated will be $50,000. The following is the list of new houses and the streets on which they are located, the owners' names being given:

David E. Hoover, North Randolph; Oliver Pipes, Randolph; W. G. Smith, Seely Baum, Frank Cusack, E. B. Kast, J. G. Kircher, Felix and Clarence Van-Anda and A. H. Woodcock, Franklin; James Barge and Clarence Rogers, Harrison; Frank C. Deitrick, Britton; Harry M. Brown, Mrs. Margaret Mountz, T. C. Little, Houston; Charles L. Ellison, Walsh; Ollie Owens, Cowen; N. R. Allman and John M. Young, King; O. H. Betts, Keyser.

What the city badly needs is a new city hall building. The present structure is a dilapidated building that is a disgrace to the municipality, a veritable fire trap. A new building has long been talked of and undoubtedly it will soon be built, if not this year, certainly next year. A building such as is needed will cost $25,000. The old building is now the home of the fire department. When a new structure is erected it is contemplated to equip it finely for Garrett's fire company.

Columbia City, Ind., June 7.—The Charles Goss Holstein cow sale held in this city was one of the best and largest sales of its kind ever conducted in Columbia City. The town is now lighted with thirty-two Tungsten lights, ranging from one hundred to two hundred and fifty watts, the latter lights being almost as brilliant as the common arc light. So far there are forty private consumers and it is expected this number will rapidly increase.

Wickersham Orders His Case Reopened

LEONARD OLSSON.

Washington, June 7.—Attorney General Wickersham has directed the United States district attorney at Seattle to assist in reopening the case of Leonard Olsson before Federal Judge Cornelius Hanford with a view of securing a reversal of the judge's finding.

Olsson is a socialist who believes that radical changes ought to be made in the present government. He was denied citizenship by Judge Hanford because of his beliefs. The action has led Congressman Victor Berger, of Wisconsin, to threaten impeachment proceedings against Judge Hanford.

C. H. Tolliver, an inventor, and his wife, were murdered recently in San Diego, Cal., by Bert G. Lewis, his private secretary, who when he confessed to the murder declared that Tolliver had broken up his home.

Tolliver had just returned from an automobie trip with his wife, when Lewis opened fire. The first bullets struck Mrs. Tolliver, who died just as she was connected with police headquarters by telephone. Lewis then turned the pistol on Tolliver and riddled him with bullets.

Lewis' plea will be the "unwritten law. His wife is siding with him and declares that when the truth is known everyone will say the shooting was justified.

THINKS A RELIC SAVED HIS LIFE

Titanic Wreck Survivor Carried Supposed Bit of Cross.

BLENDS IN ROMANCE

Philadelphia, Pa., June 7.—The shadows of the cedars of Lebanon in far-off Syria, the tragic fate of the Titanic and the unswerving faith of a Syrian youth in the supernatural power of a relic which he believes to be a particle of the Holy Cross that Christ died on are strangely blended in a romance which will soon culminate in a marriage in the Syrian colony here.

It is a narrative of love and death and faith that harks back to the land of all the Syro-Maronites whose homes cluster around the little church of St. Maron, at Tenth and Ellsworth streets.

Hanna Manna is the name of the young man, and Miss Jasmine Petros the poetic cognomen of the girl. He is scarcely twenty-one and she scarcely seventeen. Both are dark haired and dark eyed, with the fine olive complexions of their country folk. In the city of Eden, in Syria, they were neighbors' children and learned to love one another. But one day about three years ago Jasmine, her mother and two brothers left to seek their fortune in America.

Hanna Manna was disconsolate. After that his constant companion was Jasmine's brother, Tannoos Petros, who had remained behind in Syria. Hanna Manna was comfortably well off in Eden. There was really no necessity of his coming to this country—but she was here.

When not looking after his olive grove and the silk worms which he cultivated he passed his time shooting. But he wasn't happy, for he remembered his childhood companion, Jasmine Petros, who was fourteen years old when she left Eden for the United States.

A few months ago Tannoos Petros decided to follow the rest of his family to this country and take up his abode with them in Philadelphia. Hanna Manna resolved to accompany him and seek the hand of Jasmine in marriage. The family here was apprised of their coming and approved the betrothal.

The young men started from Syria for America March 25 last. At Cherbourg they took steerage passage aboard what they were told was the most wonderful and most beautiful steamship in the world—the Titanic.

With about a hundred other Syrians, Hanna Manna and his sweetheart's brother boarded the big vessel. They were light hearted and happy, little dreaming that Tannoos Petros, with seventy of his countrymen and countrywomen, were to go down with hundreds of others to death, and that Hanna Manna himself was to escape as by a miracle.

Before Hanna Manna had left Syria, in the south of which is the Holy Land, an aged Syro-Maronite monk, who had dwelt long among the cedars of Mount Lebanon—some of which, tradition says, have been there since the days of King Solomon—gave him a relic which the monk had long prized above everything else in the world. It was hidden within a tiny silver locket, the latter about the size of a five-cent piece.

The relic within, the monk told him, was a piece of the Holy Cross on which Christ was crucified. It had been handed down and guarded with the greatest reverence among the Syro-Maronites, who were converted to Christianity by St. James the apostle.

As long as Hanna Manna remained in a state of grace, the aged monk said, he would be saved from peril both by land and sea, if he carried on his person this sacred relic of the Holy Land.

When the Titanic left Cherbourg Hanna Manna put his hand to his chest and made sure that the relic was where he kept it, suspended by a stout cord, worn around his neck, beneath his shirt.

To the wearing of this relic Hanna Manna attributes his escape from death. So does every one in Little Syria. He succeeded in getting up on the desk, and there knelt with others around Father Byles, as with upraised hands the priest pronounced the words of absolution before death.

But Hanna Manna was not to die. He says he clutched his relic and called on Christ to save him. He leaped overboard and a few minutes later was beside one of the lifeboats. He seized hold. The sailors rowing it again and again sought to beat him off, but in vain. Then the women in the boat interceded for him. He drew himself out of the water and into the boat. He was rescued with the others by the Carpathia and taken to New York.

Jasmine Petros and her mother and brothers are mourning the death of Tannoos Petros, who in the confusion became separated from Hanna Manna and went down with the steamship. And all those in Little Syria are mourning the deaths of seventy of their countryfolk who were lost with the Titanic. But as soon as the period of mourning is past Jasmine Petros and Hanna Manna will be married in St. Maron's church by the Right Rev. Joseph Yazbek, the picturesque, white bearded Chor-Bishop of the Syro-Maronites in the United States.

DIES FROM REDUCING WEIGHT.

Los Angeles Widow Had Been Fasting For Fifty-Six Days.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 7.—Mrs. Cora Blanche Parkhurst, a wealthy widow who lived at Ocean Park, died suddenly in the office of the Normal Life company, 627 South Broadway.

According to the woman's friends she had been fasting for fifty-six days in an effort to decrease her weight. She weighed 250 pounds when she died. The physicians who attended her say her death was caused by a chronic heart disease, and since April 18 she had been so weak she was confined in a private office of the Normal Life company, an organization to restore health and to reduce flesh.

Coroner Hartwell was notified of the death, and announced he would conduct a rigid investigation into the case.

A party of 200 Columbia university students are planning to make a tour of France this summer. The trip will last eighty days, and will cost each man only $375, according to the prospectus. The party will have its own system of government, but no move will be made unless all agree to it.

DAWG SONG JARS ON NEBRASKANS

Professors See No Melody or Poetry in the Verses.

IS CLARK'S SLOGAN

Lincoln, Neb., June 7.—A melody that should die a sudden and unhonored death is the sentence pronounced by University of Nebraska professors on the "houn' dawg" song. Members of the faculty say it has no merit, and, furthermore, insist it be barred from university campus. When asked to express an opinion the professors said Champ Clark's slogan was silly and unmusical.

"It is one of those things that springs up occasionally, is popular in certain circles for a short time and then dies a quiet death. From what I have read and heard of it I fail to see any especial merit; it is silly," said Professor Gass.

A second professor who did not wish his name mentioned in connection with the song was even more vehement in his denunciation of the song. Regarding its origin, he said: "From its silly, idiotic lyrics one would say it had originated in the backwoods, where, I believe, it is commonly supposed to have come from. How any budding poet who had any inclination toward self-respect could have perpetrated the song upon the innocent public, except in backwoods communities, is beyond my comprehension. I have never heard the music and of course cannot speak for that. I have read only one or two of the verses and they are bad enough. But the chorus is awful. It has gained its popularity through its silliness."

PLANS HEAVENLY ASCENSION.

Demented Man With Cross on Back Collapses on Way to Hill.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 7.—With a cross of polished mahogany bound to his back and a small dais of the same wood as a foot stool, from which to ascend, Paul Karnish, aged 35, left his wife and four children, telling them he was going to the top of the Ambridge hill, where he would be crucified and, like the Savior, would be taken direct to heaven on Ascension day.

The hill toward which Karnish was headed is a mile from his home. The man has but one leg and after he had traversed part of the distance he collapsed. He was taken home and revived. Two years ago Karnish was in a railroad accident. His injuries brought on blood poisoning. Since then, his neighbors say, he has acted strangely.

Our Chief Capital.

William Muldoon, the health specialist, said in a recent interview in New York: "The health of the average American is far below what it was a generation ago. The trouble is that we Americans put dollars ahead of health, ahead of life, ahead of everything.

"They say that a European, landing for the first time in New York, once asked a native: 'What is the capital of this country, sir?'

"'I forget just how much the capital is,' the native replied; 'but anyhow, it's all in Pierpont Morgan's hands.'"

GRANDMOTHERS USED SAGE TEA

To Darken the Hair and Restore Gray and Faded Hair to Its Natural Color.

AWAY GOES DANDRUFF

It is easier to preserve the color of the hair than to restore it, although it is possible to do both. Our grandmothers understood the secret. They made a "sage tea," and their dark, glossy hair long after middle life was due to this fact. Our mothers have gray hairs before they are fifty, but they are beginning to appreciate the wisdom of our grandmothers in using "sage tea" for their hair and are fast following suit.

The present generation has the advantage of the past in that it can get a ready-to-use preparation called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy. As a scalp tonic and color restorer this preparation is vastly superior to the ordinary "sage tea" made by our grandmothers.

The growth and beauty of the hair depends on a healthy condition of the scalp. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy quickly kills the dandruff germs which rob the hair of its life, color and lustre, makes the scalp clean and healthy, gives the hair strength, color and beauty and makes it grow.

GREAT AUK'S VALUABLE EGG

One Recently Sold at Auction in London for $1,500—Bird Is Now Extinct.

An egg of the great auk, or garefowl, a bird now extinct, was sold at auction in London for a sum equivalent to $1,500.

Not all great auk's eggs are alike. In length they vary from four and one-eighth inches to five inches. The greater number found have a white ground, but others are of various shades of buff. In some cases the markings are spots, shown in blotches or lines.

It is said that no living auk has been seen since 1844. The birds were exterminated by the ruthless traffic in their eggs and skins, although their numbers, especially on the Newfoundland and Labrador coasts, where once they were very numerous, were greatly reduced by their wholesale slaughter for food.

The most remarkable characteristic of the great auk was it inability to fly. Its wings were scarcely more than fins, which aided the bird in swimming.

Doubtful Success.

Much excitement was caused a few weeks ago in Calcutta by a particularly insanitary and evil-smelling tank suddenly changing to a perfumed one, giving off the refreshing smell of lemon.

To the natives this portended the coming of a great Indian goddess, who would arise out of the water; so the pilgrims gathered in thousands to have their sins washed away and diseases cured. A guileless youth also had been selling this holy water at five rupees per bottle, which is equal to 6s. 8d.

But soon afterward it was discovered that a large consignment of essential oils, belonging to a firm of perfumers close by, had got smashed, and afterward leaked into the tank. The natives now feel rather uncomfortable at the thought of having drunk the dirty water. It is to be hoped that they will know the smell of holy water next time they meet near a perfumer's work.—Answers.

What They Did to Webster.

In the course of a speech on American heroes and institutions, Chauncey Depew stated that even the greatest Americans were almost entirely unknown abroad.

While in a distinguished gathering in England, he remarked, he commented on the fact that in Washington he lived in the very house where Daniel Webster had resided for six years while serving as secretary of state and later as a member of the senate.

A member of the English nobility replied:

"Ah, indeed, most interesting! Your Webster was a most extraordinary man. In England we have nothing to compare with your Webster, who, as I learn, was your greatest statesman and orator, wrote a dictionary and was hanged for killing a client."

BEAUTIFUL "LADY BETTY" HAS A HABIT OF MARRYING OIL MEN

"Lady Betty" Faulkner, otherwise Mrs. Betty Chapman Pierce, has been married again, a third time, and to another oil man. Her latest husband is Frank Clarence Henderson, of New York and Nowata, Okla. The first was T. Irwin Chapman, of Boston (Standard Oil man); the second Roy E. Pierce, of New York (Waters-Pierce company).

The beautiful Lady Betty's marriage with Pierce was annulled last October. Now she is going to wed one of the most powerful of the competitors of the Waters-Pierce company.

Lady Betty, between marriages, has found time to make good on the stage. She once played with Richard Mansfield.

TABLE MANNERS IN CURRICULUM

Kansas Students to Be Taught How to Hold Knife.

MAKE FORK BEHAVE

Manhattan, Kan., June 7.—A table etiquette course for men has been adopted as a permanent course at the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Tried out as an experiment last spring, it proved one of the most popular and helpful of the special courses in the whole school. One hundred young men, seniors, took the course, and now another awkward squad of nearly the same number are learning to be graceful hosts—to carve and serve dainty meals without getting stage fright or scattering the table settings all over the floor.

As a departure from the staid teachings of college the etiquette course in Kansas attracted much attention last year.

It wasn't generally known what the course proposed to do. Would it teach young men to serve and eat everyday meals correctly, or would the instruction be for formal occasions only? Was the agricultural college trying to make Lord Chesterfields of Kansas farm boys?

But visitors who saw the class in action were convinced that there was no frills about it. The meals were very daintily served, to be sure, and the service strictly correct, but the food was simple and wholesome and not beyond the means of any family.

The right way to serve and the right way to eat were being taught. There was no objection to that.

Junior girls in the school of domestic science cook and serve the meals. Luncheons and dinners, formal and informal, make up the five noon meals every week. Four persons sit at every table.

One—a woman instructor—always is hostess. The three young men take turns at playing host. They must carve and serve when necessary. The instructor teaches by example; whatever she does is right. Verbal instructions are given only when asked.

The girls work in small kitchens adjoining the big dining room—three to a kitchen. There's a kitchen for every table, which means that a different menu is being served at every table.

The girls are allowed $4 a week for the five meals. They must do their own buying. A little book, "Table Etiquette and Service," issued by the department of domestic science, is the text used in the course.

Pressing a lever under one handle dumps a wheelbarrow that a New Yorker has patented, a spring rod lowering one of the sides.

FIRE DID NOT BUDGE HIM.

Man Refused to Leave Card Table When Told Home Was Burning.

Terre Haute, Ind., June 7.—James Reese got the particular seat he wished at the card table in the No. 2 engine house and was ready for the evening game when he was told his home across the street was on fire. He thought the firemen were playing a joke on him to get the seat and refused to turn around as the firemen hurried across the street with the chemical extinguishers. They told him that they were not joking with him, but he would not move. Later he was made to understand there had been a fire, but the damage was slight.

FAILS TO PROVE AGE.

Shelbyville, Ind., June 7.—Recently Henry Sparks preferred a charge of profanity against Mrs. Ellen Means, and yesterday the case was dismissed. The dismissal was on a technical point, the state failing to prove that Mrs. Means is more than fourteen years old. Mrs. Means has a husband and six small children. The attorney failed to ask her as to age, and to be found guilty on this charge, a person must be fourteen years old.

FABULOUS RICHES HIDDEN IN STANDARD OIL'S SECRET SOCK!

Frank B. Kellogg, Famous Special U. S. Lawyer in Oil Trust Prosecution, Tells Remarkable Story to Account for Enormous Jump in Price of Oil Stocks.

(Why has the stock of the oil trust increased so enormously since the dissolution decision a year ago of the United States supreme court? In a remarkable article in June Review of Reviews, which is published today, Frank B. Kellogg, the famous St. Paul lawyer, who was selected by President Roosevelt in 1906 to conduct the government's prosecution of the Standard Oil company and who continued as chief prosecutor until the supreme court finally decided the case, tells what he considers the reason. Kellogg, in this story, part of which the Sentinel publishes below by special permission from the Review of Reviews, recites some extraordinary new facts about the Standard Oil old mine.

In his article, which is headed "Results of the Standard Oil Decision," Kellogg opens with the remark that the decree of the court accomplishes everything that is possible under the Sherman act and that it went further than any other decree, by any court, under that law. The decision, he says, establishes finally the power of congress to regulate.—Editor.)

F. B. KELLOGG.

By FRANK BILLINGS KELLOGG, Special U. S. Attorney in Standard Oil Prosecutions.

It is complained that since the decree of dissolution the value of the stocks of Standard Oil subsidary companies has vastly increased and some people assume that the cause of this is some defect in the government decree. Nothing is further from the truth.

Prior to the government prosecution the Standard Oil company was a close corporation. It never published any statement of its assets and business even to its stockholders. All the public knew was that the Standard Oil company stock paid a dividend of about 40 per cent per annum, and its market value was regulated by those dividends. Its earnings were double this sum, but only a few insiders knew that fact.

With less than one hundered millions of capital stock it had, in 1906, $261,061,811 surplus, and since that time, for five years, it has been piling up more surplus at the rate of probably forty million dollars per annum, so that its total assets at the time of the dissolution undoubtedly amounted, on the books of the company, to over $600,000,000. What the real value was beyond the book value, no one knows to this day.

Until the dissolution, in December, 1911, the stocks of the thirty-seven subsidiary corporations had never been sold on the market. They were in the treasury of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

The government in the course of the trial, for the first time disclosed the large assets and earnings of these various companies, collectively and individually. But the reports of the trial were not, of course, generally distributed, and only gradually did the facts filter to the investing public. Moreover, so long as the suit was pending the stocks of the parent company naturally sold for much less in the market. When the Standard Oil company was dissolved and these subsidiary corporations stood upon their own foundations, and as their stocks began to be dealt in upon the market, gradually the amount of their assets became known and the stocks increased enormously in value.

For instance, take the Standard Oil company of Indiana. When the government instituted the suit all that was known about the Standard Oil company of Indiana was that it had a million dollars of capital. The government showed that in 1906 this company had $24,373,937 of net assets, all, except the one million dollars, made out of the business of the company in addition to its dividends declared and was then earning at the rate of over $10,000,000 per annum. Is there any wonder that, when this company's stock came upon the market and the public gradually became aware of the enormous amount of its assets and earnings, it increased in value?

The Southern Pipe Line company is a comparatively small company, formerly with $5,000,000 of capital stock, since increased to $10,000,000. Its rate of profit from pipeline business on its net assets in that business ranged from 102.1 to 278.1 per cent per annum. During the seven years from 1899 to 1905, inclusive, vast sums were charged on the books as having been paid out to a trusted employee of the company. The government discovered two balance sheets—one in regular form showing the true earnings ranging from three to four millions annually, and the other showing each year enormous payments to this employee, the aggregate being $22,131,169, and leaving very small apparent profits, or even losses. Extraordinary efforts were made by the government to prove what became of this money. Nobody could or did explain what became of this enormous sum.

The fault is that the government never has had adequate supervision or control over large aggregations of capital with the proper publicity, which follows such control. What congress should now provide for is a voluntary system of federal incorporation and a compulsory system of federal license of large corporations engaged in interstate business. Such a license could be issued upon condition that the corporation comply with the terms and conditions of the act of congress providing therefor; and the first and most essential of these conditions would be proper publicity of the business and affairs of such corporations.

It is sufficient here to say that such a license law should make clear just what corporations shall be permitted to engage in interstate commerce and under what conditions.

THE CHILD IS A DIVORCE VICTIM

Woman Finds Broken Homes Are Filing the Asylums.

'TIS A GREAT EVIL

Denver, Col., June 7—Divorce and separation of parents are responsible for 5i per cent. of the population in the public and private orphan asylum and other children's institutions in Denver, declared Miss Anne Reynolds, who spoke at the semi-annual conference of the state board of charities and corrections. She declared death of parents is only one of the minor causes of dependency.

Miss Reynolds spoke from personal knowledge. She has visited the children's homes of Denver and Chicago and she says both cities show the appalling effects of divorce.

She advocated the establishment of a court of domestic relations, such as that in Chicago, where the causes of poverty and public dependence are investigated in order that the evil may be stamped out.

Miss Reynolds interested herself in philanthropic work several months ago at the request of her mother, Mrs. A. E. Reynolds, who is a member of the board of control of the state home for dependent children.

When Miss Reynolds' activities became known other society friends they rushed to her with horrifying tales of the humiliations she would have to endure by "mixing with such stuff."

"Get out of it," they said; "you will only make yourself conspicuous and to no purpose."

Miss Reynolds did not get out. On a recent trip to Chicago she visited every charitable institution, talked with the little unfortunates rescued from the slums, asked them about their parents and learned to read their hearts.

Miss Reynolds had dropped in at the conference with her mother to hear the discussions. She had not prepared an address, but Father William O'Ryan, who was presiding, called on her.

Miss Reynolds was appointed a member of the board of county visitors of Denver's institutions by Judge Dixon, of the county court, at the request of the state board of charities and correction.

The meeting was considered the most successful ever held by the organization. The trend of the discussions was toward the elimination of the causes which make public charity necessary.

Dr. W. H. Sharpley, city health commissioner, declared the state is neglecting the insane. Although Denver pays one-third of all the taxes collected in the state, the city is compelled to take care of its own insane in quarters not adapted to their proper treatment, declared Dr. Sharpley.

"The county jail must be abolished, for it is without a parallel as a school of crime." This was the opening statement in a paper read by W. E. Collett, secretary of the Colorado Prison association and general secretary of the Associated Charities.

He denounced the county jails on the ground that when a person commits an offense against the laws of the state he should be confined in a state institution, instead of one conducted by the county. He also charged that the county jails do not furnish useful employment to prisoners and that unless the dignity and joy of labor be taught there can be no reform.

Dr. Elizabeth Cassidy read a paper on county farms. She advocated the sale of the present one, sixteen miles away from Denver, and the purchase of a small tract. She declared the inmates of the county poor house cannot labor on a farm and the whole theory is wrong.

Mrs. L. B. Page, superintendent of the Boulder county poor house, declared large farms are a mistake. She favors locations near a city where light and water accommodations can be obtained more readily. She said the requisites of a county poor farm are cleanliness, fire protection and wholesome food.

S.S.S. DRIVES OUT RHEUMATISM

Rheumatism is due to an excess of uric acid, an irritating, inflammatory accumulation, which gets into the circulation because of weak kidneys, constipation, indigestion, and other physical irregularities which are usually considered of no importance. Nothing applied externally can ever reach the seat of this trouble; the most such treatment can do is soothe the pains temporarily; while potash and other mineral medicines really add to the acidity of the blood, and this fluid therefore continually grows more acrid and vitiated. Then instead of nourishing the different muscles and joints, keeping them in a normally supple and elastic condition, it gradually hardens and stiffens them by drying up the natural oils and fluids. Rheumatism can never be cured until the blood is purified. S. S. S. thoroughly cleanses and renovates the circulation by neutralizing the acids and driving the cause from the system. It strengthens and invigorates the blood so that instead of a sour, weak stream, depositing acrid and painful corrosive matter in the muscles, joints and bones, it nourishes the entire body with pure, rich blood and permanently cures Rheumatism. S. S. S. contains no potash, alkali or other harmful mineral, but is made entirely of roots, herbs and barks of great purifying and tonic properties. Book on Rheumatism and any medical advice free to all who write.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago Market.

Chicago, Ill., June 7.—Wheat rose today in response to evidence that the rainfall in Kansas was of less importance than supposed. September started at $1.05⅛ to $1.05⅝, and advanced to $1.05⅝@1.05½.

Reports of virtual failure of the crop in western Nebraska sent prices still higher. There were also bullish estimates on yield in the soft winter states for the Ohio valley. The close was steady, with September at $1.05⅞@1.06, an advance of 1⅛@1¼c net.

Offerings in the corn pit proved to be light. July opened at 74⅜c to 74½c, and ascended to 74⅞c.

Opinion that the weather was too cool for corn kept prices taut. The close was firm, ⅜c up, at 74⅝c for July.

Buying on the part of commission houses turned the price of oats upward. July started at 50¾c and mounted to 51¼c.

Increased cost of live hogs made provisions firm. Initial sales with September delivery were $18.87½ to $18.90 for pork, $11.12½@11.15 for lard and $10.65 to $10.67½ for ribs.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

The Day on Wall Street.

New York, June 7.—Declines were general at the opening of today's market with losses of a point in several of the less active securities and 2¼ points in Canadian Pacific. All the better known issues reflected selling pressure, but the early losses in Reading and Lehigh Valley were soon recovered.

Depression in London's market, resulting largely from acute condition in Berlin, provoked unsettlement here today. Canadian Pacific, in which Berlin has some interest, was the chief sufferer, declining 2½ points, with pronounced heaviness in many of the more active stocks and various important issues. The few gains included American Snuff which added 2½ points to yesterday's phenomenal rise. Bonds were steady.

The market closed heavy. Lowest prices were reached in the last hour when news came that the United States supreme court had overruled the commerce court in several important findings against the interstate commerce commission.

MONEY IN BANK BUT WANT GAME

Ute Indians of Utah Go Hunting While Crops Waste.

TEAMS STAND IDLE

Myton, Utah, June 7.—Hundreds of Ute Indians on the former Uintan reservation in Northeastern Utah are all but starving, though they have plenty of money in bank. Their credit at the stores has been cut off by order of Charles L. Davis, acting Indian agent and supervising farmer, and the usual annuity of $20 per capita has not been paid for a year. The local government farmers are trying to teach them to cultivate the soil, but they say they "no likum work on heap empty stomach."

Rabbit Perank, who has an allotment near Myton, was one of twelve to receive 100 pounds of potatoes to plant. He promised faithfully to put them in the ground, and he kept his word; but it is said that he dug them up again for food. Rabbit and his squaw have $2,400 in the bank, a team of horses which cost $500, with harness, wagons, ploughs and all other farming implements. The horses have plenty of hay and oats and a warm stable, but Rabbit and his squaw and children live in a tepee and eat and sleep on the ground.

Pekepovits and his squaw have more than $4,00 in the bank, and Accawinna has $1,000, yet they go hungry. Instructions have come from the agency at Fort Duchesne to issue rations carefully, because available money will be scarce until the crops are made.

Ten thousand acres of what is known as "dead" Indian land has been sold in the last two or three years, and the Indians would be richer by at least $200,000 if they could get the money, but most of these sales were not confirmed until within the last few months, and although the money is now in the bank, the Indians can't get it.

A few days ago a team was seen standing idle in a ploughed field with the Indian driver some distance away shooting with a rifle at a prairie dog, having had scarcely any breakfast. The rations issued to so-called working Indians are 50 pounds of flour for 100 days; 10 pounds of bacon, 1 pound baking powder, 3 pounds beans and 4 pounds sugar. The bottom of the flour barrel is in sight, as a rule, before the end of the first week, and the Indians go on a hunt for prairie dogs while the work goes undone. In no case is the clerk allowed to issue rations to more than four in one family, and many families are twice that number.

Besides the money derived from recent sales of allotments the government owes the confederated band of Ute Indians from $3,500,000 to $4,000,000, and it has been due for more than a quarter of a century. Judgment was rendered in the United States supreme court against the government for approximately $3,500,000. A bill is pending in congress providing for the payment of this amount. The money is due under a treaty wherein the Indians agreed to leave Colorado and come to Utah in the early eighties. The promise was made at that time that their Colorado lands would be sold and the money placed to their credit. A million and a quarter dollars was turned over, but they have been deprived of the balance up to this time. The interest of this million and a quarter has furnished an annuity, but that has ceased since the judgment was rendered.

In 1905 the Uintah Indian reservation in this state was thrown open to entry, and thousands of white people are settling up the country. Soon after the reservation was opened the department began the construction of a series of irrigating canals to water 100,000 acres of Indian allotments. Up to date nearly a million dollars has been expended in irrigation work, and most of the land is today a desert waste.

There are 1,500 Indians on this reservation, and they are probably of as low a type as any in the United States.

BOYS ARE NOT WANTED.

Word was received from the chief of police at Phoenixville, Pa., that four boys held here and who confessed they were guilty of a criminal assault are not wanted and they will be released tomorrow in the city court.

Elfrieda Kruse, of Beecher, Ill., who for the last year has made her home with her brother, Professor Kruse, of Concordia college, returned to Illinois this morning.

The Peerless Wire Fence company, of Adrian, Mich., creditors in the bankrupt case of Bowser & Davis, of Spencerville, held its first hearing this afternoon before Referee Sol. A. Wood. The Michigan company seeks to secure $500 worth of wire fence, which it alleges the bankrupt concern had not paid for. Attorney Aitkenson represents the company.

CALLS INDIANA PLAN WASTEFUL

Father of the Mothers' Pension Law in Visit to Fort Wayne.

MR. NEIL'S SYSTEM

Henry Neil, father of the Illinois mothers' pension law, is in Fort Wayne today interviewing court officials and other citizens regarding his plan for caring for dependent children. Mr. Neil embraced the opportunity, also, to talk with many of the visiting editors. He is seeking to awaken sufficient interest in the work to get it before the next Indiana legislature, and is doing similar missionary work in other states.

The "Neil plan" is simple. When a parent or the parents is unable to care for the offspring, Indiana and all other states except Illinois will take the children, or child, from the parent and place it in an institution. Almost invariably such dependents are the children of widows or deserted mothers. Neil insists that in most cases these mothers are morally fit to rear their children and the separation therefore is distressing to the mother and detrimental to the child.

"In Illinois, up to the time of the last legislature," said Mr. O'Neil, "the state paid $10 a month for each child to the various institutions which take and care for them. In Indiana the law is very similar, only your payments are on a per diem basis—35 cents a day, which means $10.50 a month. Other states have similar laws, and they are desirable if nothing that is better is offered to take their place. I think I have a better plan. I think so not only because I believe in the mothers' pension system, but because the Illinois legislature saw such merit in it that, at the last session, the new system was adopted by an act which did not have a single dissenting vote against it—which is a remarkable record in legislation in Illinois and especially on a measure which proposes a very complete substitution of a time-honored system of doing things, by a new idea."

Neil's Simple Plan.

"The plan is simple—so simple that I am surprised it was not the original law. Now the court takes the children away from the parent and turns them over to an orphans' or dependent children's institution. It is pretty well recognized now, and has been for years, that children reared in an institution too often are 'institution children.' Most of them do not have a proper chance to develop as distinctive individuals along lines that make for independent thinkers and citizens. All that the new system provides is that in such a case the court shall make an investigation and if it reveals that the parent is morally and otherwise a proper guardian of the child or children, the county or state shall employ the parent—which generally means the mother—to take care of and rear the offspring.

"The system, as it works in Illinois, requires the same showing of fact that is now necessary in taking the child or children away from the mother, but the payment, or pension, given the mother for the service of rearing the child is left wholly to the discretion of the judge. The result is that there is a great financial saving. In Chicago at this time 222 mothers are under this payment or pension system and 700 children, who otherwise would be in institutions, are being cared for at a cost of $4,000 a month, which figures out only about $5.75 a child instead of the $10 a child that formerly was paid.

Indiana System Wasteful.

"The Indiana system, as it now stands, compared with the Illinois system, is wasteful of money; it results in breaking up homes that could be held together, and the effect is bad on both the mother and the children. I do not know what your experience is, but we find that after the child is taken away and put into an institution, many mothers in Illinois become despondent and hopeless and they become charges on the community also, or even the effect may be adverse to their morality.

"In fixing the payments, or the 'mothers' pension,' the judge takes many things into consideration. There are the relatives under the law and their obligation to keep the offspring and rear it; there is the possible limited earning power of the parent, or parents, and all such kindred considerations. The operation of the new system in Illinois certainly shows that, taken as a whole, the parent can rear the child cheaper and better than any institution.

"Of course if the parent or parents are morally or otherwise unfit the child is taken away, and even under our system the custodian of the child is always under probation, and the welfare of the ward of the state is constantly before the court. The father seldom figures in such cases, but there are some cases wherein he is stricken with paralysis or some other disease and left unable to do his duty to the child. In those cases where the mother has been abandoned—and they are numerous—and the father of the child later returns to her, of course the pension stops. This is one of the great advantages of the system, for the duty of the male parent to the child is not thus shunted on to the county or state, as would be the case after the child were lodged and forgotten in an institution.

Mothers Rear Children Better.

"While the fathers thus, on rare occasions, do figure in such cases, still the mother so generally—one might say invariably—is the one we deal with that the plan is called the mothers' pension system. I have no war to make on institutions, but I do believe that many, if not most mothers, can rear their children far better, if they get a little help, than any institution can rear them. And then, from the taxpayers' point of view, it is economy."

Mr. O'Neil will visit other Indiana cities. He is a resident of Oak Park, a Chicago suburb, and for many years was a publisher. He has always been deeply interested in social and charity problems, and for some years has been making a study of the great problems that arise in the juvenile courts which have to deal so directly wth the homes. Judge Taylor, he thinks, is very favorably impressed with his plan and he has also met with considerate treatment among the members of the legislature on whom he has called.

LINCOLN STATUE CRITICISED.

St. Gauden's Widow Shows Where Copyist of Husband's Work Failed.

Boston, Mass., June 7.—Criticism of the bronze reproduction of the statue of Abraham Lincoln, recently presented to the Boston chamber of commerce by the chamber of commerce of Chicago, is made by Mrs. Augustus St. Gaudens, widow of the sculptor of the original statue, which stands in Lincoln park, Chicago. The reproduction was the work of George E. Ganiere of Chicago, and of it Mrs. St. Gaudens said: "Everything is exaggerated. The pose of the head is not the same. Neither is the position of the arm behind the back. Just observe the modeling of the wrinkling in the clothing. Mr. St. Gaudens never modeled clothing like that. That's the chair, but it is all out of proportion."

WHITE SWANS HUNTERS' MARK.

Twenty-Pounders Shot in a Lineup an Eighth Mile Long.

York, Pa., June 7.—Gunners along the Susquehanna river are making the most of a visit of big white swans.

A flock in which seventy-seven of the stately birds were counted was seen upon the swollen stream near Long Level. The birds were spread out in a file about an eighth of a mile long. Two that were killed by the Lucas brothers, residing in the vicinity, each tipped the scales at twenty pounds.

In four shots, John Shank, pilot of the Wild Cat Falls ferry boat, killed three swans and crippled a fourth. The three birds weighed forty pounds, the largest being a seventeen-pounder.
